

Congressional Districts Redrawn

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Democratic senators have used their majority ranks to approve 20-12 a controversial bill that draws new boundaries for the state's 23 congressional districts.

The vote Thursday represented a leadership victory for Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, who warded off a minor rebellion in his 21-senator caucus.

Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29

Canton, was the only Democrat to leave ranks as the bill went to an uncertain fate in the House. He said he had been bombarded with about 3,000 letters and calls from constituents, angry because the bill puts Stark County into three separate districts. It does the same to Warren and Clark, and has 21 other counties sitting in more than one district.

Otherwise, the long partisan debate was reminiscent of many earlier occasions when one political party or another—mostly the Republicans in recent years—decided to reshape districts while they controlled both houses of the legislature.

Republicans did it in 1964 and again in 1968, with results that gave them a 14-9 margin in Ohio's congressional delegation. The edge now is down to 13-10, and Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, sponsor of the pending bill, thinks Democrats can turn this around with the new map. Some Democrats expect to pick up four or five additional seats.

Sen. Sam Speck, D-20 New Concord, and others voiced expected cries of "gerrymandering" and predicted Ohioans will resent the Democratic handiwork at a time when redistricting isn't needed. The job theoretically is to be done every 10 years following the U.S. Census.

Noting that new districts will be drawn again in 1980, Speck argued that the current plan would stir "voter confusion." Many Ohioans will have to learn the identities of their congressman all over again, he said.

Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15

Columbus, accepted straight out the charge by Republicans that Democrats were redistricting only because they now have the votes in the Senate and House.

"The time to eat pumpkin pie is when you have pumpkin pie," O'Shaughnessy said, adding that his home county of Franklin, where Democrats outnumber Republicans, hasn't had a Democratic member of Congress since 1934.

Farm Price Drop Helps Hold Down Wholesale Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices fell six-tenths of one percent in June, the biggest drop in nearly four years, the government reported today. But the good news was offset by a rise in the unemployment rate from 6.9 per cent to 7.1 per cent.

A big drop in farm prices led the price decline last month, an indication of an easing of inflationary pressures at the wholesale level.

Wholesale prices generally presage prices consumers pay and the effects of last month's decline could first show up at supermarket counters following several months of rapidly rising food prices.

The increase in the jobless rate was the first in four months, as the number of Americans without jobs in June rose by 210,000 to 7.9 million. Most of the increase occurred among adult women, whose jobless rate rose from 6.6 to 7.2 per cent.

The price news was certain to cheer the Carter administration, which has been deeply worried over price reports in previous months that showed inflation increasing at a 10 per cent annual rate during the first quarter.

However, the turnaround in the unemployment rate could be a disturbing sign, indicating the economy is not producing enough jobs to satisfy all those looking for work. Administration officials have cautioned that unemployment might increase in some months but are predicting the jobless rate will decline to about 6.5 per cent by the year's end.

Not all of the job report was bad. Employment continued to increase last month, rising by 270,000 to a total of 90.7 million. Employment grew by 2.9 million over the past eight months as the economy continued to expand.

However, there was also a large gain in the size of the labor force last month, which rose by 480,000 to 97.6 million. The labor force includes those at work and those looking for work.

The unemployment rate had been declining almost continuously from the 1976 high of 8 per cent recorded in November, rising only in January when the severe winter weather and related fuel shortages forced large numbers of layoffs.

Among the various groups, the Labor Department reported the jobless rate for adult men dropped to 5 per cent from 5.3 per cent last month. The teenage jobless rate rose to 18.6 per cent from 17.9 per cent.

Unemployment among household heads, regarded as the family breadwinner, edged down to 4.3 per cent from 4.5 per cent.

Joblessness among whites rose slightly to 6.3 per cent from 6.2 per cent, while the rate for blacks increased to 13.2 per cent from 12.9 per cent.

Logan Elm Graduate Awarded Scholarship

Deborah Larson, a 1977 graduate of Logan Elm High School, has been awarded a $500 B. C. Gamble scholarship presented by the P. W. Skogmo Foundation. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon W. Larson, 230 Pawnee Drive, Circleville. Her father is the former general manager of the local Buckeye Mart which is operated by Gambles, the Minneapolis-based merchandising company.

This is one of sixteen scholarships offered annually by the Foundation to eligible sons and daughters of Gamble employees and authorized Gamble and Skogmo dealers.

"It is my hope that these grants will stimulate further interest in higher education among our dealer and employee families. Today, we can't over-emphasize the need for full development of the talents and potentials of our young people," Mr. Gamble, president of the P.W. Skogmo Foundation, stated in announcing the awards.

To qualify, the young men and women must be current high school graduates with definite plans to go on to an accredited 4-year college or university. Candidates are judged on scholastic achievement, faculty recommendations and extra-curricular activities.

Final selections of the scholarship winners were made by Dr. Ralph Johnson, director of Guidance Services, Minneapolis Public Schools; and Mr. George Risty, assistant executive director for Budget Administration and Student Aids for the Minnesota Higher Education Coordinating Commission.

Over 500 students have received scholarship grants since the scholarship program was inaugurated.

Deborah ranked first in her class of 174 students and has been very active in athletics including track, volleyball, softball, basketball. She was co-captain of the basketball team and president of the Varsity Club. She was also active in Girl Scouts and the St. Joseph's Catholic Church youth organization. Deborah plans to attend Central Michigan University and major in physical education.

Storms Don't Curb Power Use

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Scorching temperatures continue and the drought in Virginia has become so severe that Gov. Mills Godwin has declared a state of emergency.

Mills said Thursday that he was asking President Carter for a disaster area designation initially for 14 counties, mostly in the west-central and northern parts of the state, but as many as 42 of the state's 95 counties may eventually be involved.

Meanwhile, temperatures soared to record highs around the Southeast Thursday — including a sizzling 105 degrees in Birmingham, Ala. — and more of the same was expected today.

Other cities with record highs for the day included Raleigh, N.C., 100; Wilmington, N.C., 102; Richmond, Va., 103; and Roanoke, Va., 100.

Severe storms thunderstorms continued early this morning from the central Plains across the Ohio valley into the northern and mid-Atlantic states and over southern Florida.

Six tornadoes were reported Thursday — two in Colorado and one each in Iowa, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Florida. The Florida twister was near Zephyr Hills and damaged buildings and blew down trees.

In Ohio, thunderstorm winds took the roof off a building in Kent and trees were blown down in Cleveland, Van Wert, Andover and Orwell.

Temperatures early this morning were generally in the 70s and low 80s from the southern Plains to the middle and south Atlantic coast.

Early morning temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 95 at Luke Air Force Base near Phoenix to 45 in Houlton, Maine.

The severe thunderstorms that swept much of Ohio Thursday night led to at least one death in the state.

A 28-year-old Ohio Power Co. employee was electrocuted Thursday night while working to repair lines which had been knocked down during the storm in Allen County.

The Allen County sheriff's office identified the man as Martin Nutter of Delphos. He came in contact with a 7,200-volt power line while doing repair work near Delphos, deputies said.

"We are in a heat storm condition," a spokesman for Ohio Edison in Akron said as the summer's first heat wave entered its third wilting day.

What that means is power officials around Ohio are keeping one eye on the continuing record demands for electricity and the other on generating equipment already punished by a brutal winter.

Ohio Edison, Dayton Power & Light,

Cincinnati Gas & Electric, Cleveland Electric Illuminating and Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric all set peak load records Wednesday. Most expected even heavier usage Thursday.

But power company officials were confident they could meet the demands because they can buy or borrow extra electricity if they need it.

"We are keeping our eyes on two things: The system, which we are watching for overloading, and our (generating) units, which have to work harder than ever before to produce the kilowatt hours," the Ohio Edison spokesman said.

"We have a couple units that are really not up to snuff. That is a hang-over from the winter conditions when we had to burn frozen coal and at that point had to use our system rather (Continued on Page 18)

Ohio Lawmakers Wrap Up Busy Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A week that has seen Ohio lawmakers range far and wide from raw politics to a sensitive medical issue unfamiliar to the legislative forum culminates today with a rare Friday Senate session.

Senators decided to stay an extra day to work on a backlog of bills as the General Assembly moved toward a July 29 summer adjournment.

While majority Democrats in the Senate were redrawing the Ohio congressional district map and overriding three of Gov. James A. Rhodes' budget vetoes Thursday, House members voted 79-10 to legalize

Ex-Lax Co.

Not Amused By Spoof

NEW YORK (AP) — Ex-Lax Co. is not amused by a product being produced by an Ohio novelty company as a spoof of one of the nation's best-known laxatives.

The company filed suit in Brooklyn federal court Thursday in an attempt to halt the continued distribution of the product, called Sex-Lax, and seeking damages from its maker, Leister Game Co. of Toledo, Ohio.

Ex-Lax is a widely known chocolate flavored laxative packed 48 tablets to a box, with instructions for its use imprinted on the box along with its trademark.

In its suit, Ex-Lax Co. said the Sex-Lax package mimics in color and trademark the Ex-Lax package and has the following instructions imprinted on it:

"For relief of sexual irregularity. Not a laxative. Bed tested for effective results. Do not use with strangers, or casual acquaintances."

Sex-Lax bears the seal of approval of "The Unplanned Parenthood League," and the product turns out to be tablets of cinnamon-flavored chewing gum.

Ex-Lax charged in its suit that the take-off on its product has caused it "great and irreparable damage," and said, "the notation Sex-Lax so resembles the trademark Ex-Lax as to be likely to cause confusion and mistake and to deceive and said use has been without the consent, license, or authorization of the plaintiffs."

Reds Rap U.S. Neutron Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moscow is stepping up its attack against U.S. development of the neutron bomb as President Carter considers whether to move ahead with production of the weapon.

After disclosure Thursday that the warhead has been tested underground in Nevada, a Russian commentator wrote in a dispatch reported by the Soviet news agency Tass that instead of seeking a satisfactory settlement of the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms talks, "the American administration is doing everything possible to complicate these negotiations."

The commentator, Yuri Kornilov, wrote, "This round in the race for illusive military superiority is an extremely dangerous venture which jeopardizes the cause of deepening and strengthening detente."

Administration officials refused to respond to the Soviet commentary.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said last week in Paris that U.S.-Soviet relations have been strained by "very substantial" differences over strategic arms limitations and human rights.

In confirming the bomb tests in Nevada, a spokesman for the Energy Research and Development Administration declined to say when the testing began or how extensive it has been. He said the tests were conducted underground in accordance with existing treaties.

The spokesman said weapons are tested before production as "a matter of procedure."

Meg's Jewelry Brings $17,000

LONDON (AP) — A London jeweler paid $10,000 more than the auctioneers expected for an emerald pendant owned by Princess Margaret, Queen Elizabeth's sister.

Jeweler Laurence Graff got the pendant for 10,000 pounds — $17,000 — at an auction at Sotheby's Thursday and said he was prepared to pay a lot more.

The auction house estimated the jewel, which included a gold chain, a ruby and some pearls, would bring between 3,000 and 4,000 pounds ($5,100 to $6,800). A spokesman said the royalty ownership of the pendant caused the higher than expected sale price.

The lawmakers also found time to approve a bill prohibiting nonhandicapped motorists from parking in locations reserved for the handicapped.

"When are we going to say 'enough'?" asked Rep. Sherrod Brown, D-61 Mansfield, in a futile argument against occupational licensing of more and more job categories; in this case the auto lease dealers.

Seconds after Brown sat down, the House approved 66-22 the bill, which also raises licensing fees for new and used car dealers. It was endorsed by the Ohio Automobile Dealers Association, who favored provisions establishing separate license requirements for new and used car dealers.

All of these House bills were sent to the Senate for another round of consideration. The Congressional redistricting bill, approved 20-12 with a single Democrat joining Republicans in opposition, went to the House, where its future is uncertain.

Sen. Robert D. Freeman, D-29 Canton, was the first Democrat to openly break ranks on the remap bill, but not the first to express grave reservations about a plan Republicans consider blatant gerrymandering.

Sponsored by Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, it seeks to reshape several congressional districts to get maximum mileage from Democrat areas and turnaround the 13-10 GOP edge in the congressional delegation.

It was the largest monthly decline recorded by the index in nearly four years.

Today's early volume leaders included Sony, unchanged at 9 in a 120,000-share block trade; Citicorp, up 1/8 at 28, and General Dynamics, ahead 3/4 at 61.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.78 to 909.51.

Gainers outnumbered losers by a 4-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 21.74 million shares, against 21.23 million Wednesday.

Risky Operations Separates Twins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Siamese twins joined at the torso since birth remain desperately ill after an operation that followed a "tough ethical decision" to try to save both infants, rather than sacrifice one.

"We decided the chances of both surviving were very small, but the chances of one surviving reasonable," said Dr. Judson G. Randolph, who supervised the operation that separated the two-month-old girls on June 23.

"If we had chosen to save one child, it would have been a relatively simple operation because there would have been plenty of tissue and plenty of skin," Randolph said Thursday after hospital officials released word of the operation.

The girls' mother asked that the family remain anonymous.

"One was not healthier than the other," Randolph said. "It is our judgment that separation, even at a greater risk, was kinder."

Now, even though he is caring for two very sick infants, Randolph said he "wouldn't go back" on "the tough ethical decision" he made with other physicians, clergymen, the family and others at Children's Hospital.

The girls, flown from Italy for the 10-hour operation, "laughed, smiled and cried independently" when they arrived, he said.

Before separation, the twins had two hearts, two sets of lungs, two stomachs, four arms, two heads and separate spines, Randolph said. Their intestinal tracts were intertwined, their diaphragm and liver were joined and they had two legs.

"We don't know whether they will live. They're still desperately ill," he said.

Randolph said if the twins survive, corrective surgery may be possible later to allow each to be outfitted with an artificial leg.

Randolph said his main concern is the "gaping wounds" in each child's torso that are covered with plastic.

"They are still an indefinite way away from being healed," he said, adding the risk of infection was large.

Mine Blast Fatal To 4 In Virginia

ST. CHARLES, Va. (AP) — An explosion that killed four coal miners in this southwestern Virginia community was caused by methane gas concentrations above federal limits, authorities said early today.

"If you had an explosion there would have had to have been a safety violation," said Frank Mann, supervisor of mining engineering for the Virginia district of the Federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration.

Mann made the comment shortly after the four miners were brought out of the P&P Coal Co. pit around 2 a.m.

The victims' widows stood around the mine entrance as the bodies were brought to the surface.

Janie Perkins of Jonesville, whose 31-year-old husband Bill was one of those killed, wept loudly during the 10 minutes it took rescuers to cover the charred bodies and transfer them from mine cars to ambulances.

The other victims were identified as Harold Johnson, 33, and Harold Wells, 40, both of St. Charles, and Danny Tester, 29, of Woodway.

Authorities said the four men died almost immediately from heat shock and carbon monoxide poisoning after the explosion racked the mine shortly after 10 a.m. Thursday.

Fourteen other miners who were working about 1,500 yards from the explosion escaped unharmed. The four victims had been sent into an abandoned section of the shaft to retrieve equipment.

Hard-Hitting Newscaster

CINCINNATI (AP) — You could call Al Schottlekotte a hard-hitting newscaster.

The 5-foot-7, 50-year-old television anchorman punched a shouting intruder during a live newscast Wednesday night, then calmly continued the telecast.

Schottlekotte, of WCPO Television in Cincinnati, was seated in front of the cameras when a young man dashed into the newsroom and headed toward the veteran newscaster.

Schottlekotte saw him approach the set, turned off his microphone as a filmed report on a fire began, then slugged the man, knocking him to the floor. The scuffle was not seen by viewers, although there was 15 seconds of dead airtime.

The man, described as in his early 20s, ran out of the building after being slugged.

Schottlekotte said he struck the man because "he was intruding." He added that he used his fist "because that was the best weapon I had at the moment to deal with it."

Robert Gordon, general manager of the station, said security is being tightened to prevent a repeat of the incident.

Senators Pass Strip Mine Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senators added their approval Thursday to a House bill which will enable the state to begin restoring about 370,000 acres of land ravaged by strip mining before Ohio enacted its 1972 reclamation law.

Sen. Kinsey Milleson, D-30 Freeport, who sponsored the bill in the Senate, noted that beginning July 1, the state severance tax on coal and other minerals will be earmarked for projects laid out by the natural resources department.

Under the bill, the state can restore privately owned lands if a determination is made that a project will benefit the general public—such as eliminating a source of pollution.

Also under the bill, which returned to the House for consideration of minor Senate changes, the state may purchase land, reclaim it, and sell the improved property.

The severance tax will yield an estimated $4 million a year.

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market staged a broad advance today on the news of a sharp decline in the wholesale price index.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose more than a point in early trading.

Gainers outpaced losers by better than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

An hour before the opening the government reported that the wholesale price index fell 0.6 per cent in June, thanks to a big drop in farm and food prices.

It was the largest monthly decline recorded by the index in nearly four years.

Today's early volume leaders included Sony, unchanged at 9 in a 120,000-share block trade; Citicorp, up 1/8 at 28, and General Dynamics, ahead 3/8 at 61.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.78 to 909.51.

Gainers outnumbered losers by a 4-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 21.74 million shares, against 21.23 million Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index picked up .17 to 54.84.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index climbed .73 to 120.60.

Senators Pass Strip Mine Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senators added their approval Thursday to a House bill which will enable the state to begin restoring about 370,000 acres of land ravaged by strip mining before Ohio enacted its 1972 reclamation law.

Sen. Kinsey Milleson, D-30 Freeport, who sponsored the bill in the Senate, noted that beginning July 1, the state severance tax on coal and other minerals will be earmarked for projects laid out by the natural resources department.

Under the bill, the state can restore privately owned lands if a determination is made that a project will benefit the general public—such as eliminating a source of pollution.

Also under the bill, which returned to the House for consideration of minor Senate changes, the state may purchase land, reclaim it, and sell the improved property.

The severance tax will yield an estimated $4 million a year.

Antique Autos Back Weekend

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Antique cars could be running up a lot of mileage next week.

Among the two-dozen or so special events planned across Ohio during the week are antique car shows at Greenfield in Highland County, then 80 miles north to Columbus and 90 miles east to Quaker City in Guernsey County.

For more than 70 years the Ohio Hills Heritage Association has sponsored the Ohio Hills Folk Festival at Quaker City. George Osborne, association president, said the July 14-17 festival promotes the old-time ways of doing things.

He said the festival includes demonstrations and contests for muzzle loading rifles, fiddle and banjo contests, a horse show, square dancing and daily parades.

Here, it is called the Greene Countrie Towne Festival and aims at promoting the advantages of rural living.

It has contests for fiddlers, tobacco spitters, grinders and pretty girls who vie for festival queen.

For nature lovers, the Ohio Historical Society is holding a seminar on butterflies and moths at Wahkeena State Memorial near Sugar Grove.

Following is a list of special events by dates:

9-19 — The Bluegrass Festival winds up at Germantown, the Water Festival concludes at Huron and Canal Fulton wraps up its Canal Days Festival.

9-10 — Rio Grande conducts the first of four successive weekends of Gallia Country outdoor activities at the Bob Evans Farm.

9 — Blossom Music Center, Cleveland-Akron; Blossom Festival Chorus is conducted by Sarah Caldwell in a classical program that includes excerpts from "War and Peace."

10 — "Captain and Tennile," is at the Blossom Center.

10 — Outdoor Antique Show and Sale at Stan Hywet Hall in Akron.

11 — Dan Fogelberg is at Blossom Center.

12-16 — Ohio Baseball Hall of Fame celebration at the Cy Young Museum in Newcomerstown.

13 — Preservation Hall Jazz Band performs at Blossom Center.

14 — Greene Countrie Towne Festival opens a four-day program at Greenfield.

14 — Ohio Hills Folk Festival opens a four-day program at Quaker City.

14-17 — Straw Hat Theater at Ashtabula features "Witness For The Prosecution."

14 — Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians perform at Blossom Center.

15-16 — Giuseppe Patane conducts the Cleveland Orchestra both nights in classical programs.

15-17 — Crooksville is host to the Roseville Pottery Festival.

16 — Barborton is host to an arts and crafts show.

16 — Butterflies and Moths Seminar, Wahkeena State Memorial, Sugar Grove.

17 — Antique & Classic Auto Show, Ohio Historical Village, Columbus.

New KSU President Picketed

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Members of the May Fourth Coalition demonstrating against construction of a new gymnasium annex at Kent State University planned today to picket the school's president-designate, Dr. Brage Golding, during his visit to the campus.

Meanwhile, the arrest of two persons and an incident involving a third, all of them nonstudents, sparked a noisy but peaceful march by the coalition outside campus police headquarters late Thursday.

The marchers allege that campus police are trying to harass them by enforcing what the demonstrators call technical violations of university policy. But a spokesman for the university denied the charge.

About 100 hand-clapping, slogan-shouting demonstrators marched for 15 minutes outside the police station, then dispersed.

Two coalition members were arrested by campus police inside a dormitory closed to students during the summer.

The university said Mark Canfora, 19, of Barborton, was charged with criminal trespass, while his sister, Roseann, 27, was charged with disorderly conduct. Both were freed on recognizance bonds pending a court appearance next Thursday.

The two reportedly were on their way to a meeting being held at the "Center for Peaceful Change" located on the ground floor of the dormitory.

On Books And Activities At The Library

We may not be the coolest place in town but we probably have more suggestions to help you beat the heat than any other place. Whether you're looking for a cool meal to prepare or a cool place to vacation, we can help you find it. And of course, there's nothing that beats the heat like escaping between the pages of an interesting book! Stop by the Pickaway County District Public Library first and then draw up a cool corner and relax!

We're heavy on the non-fiction this week. Many of the new titles should appeal to the hobbyists. A well-illustrated and informative book for the gun enthusiast is Monty Kennedy's "Checkering And Carving Of Gunstocks." It's a complete reference with ready to use patterns and detailed techniques for improving gunstocks.

A revived interest in caning will make "Cane And Rush Seating" by Margery Brown a popular book. It has an easy to follow text and very clear diagrams. It should encourage the most timid novice to try his hand at chair renewal.

Not for the beginner, but for the needlepoint hobbyist looking for new ideas, "Designing For Needlepoint And Embroidery" by Jan Messent is an unique and inspiring book.

For the chef, "The Peanut Cookbook" by Dorothy Frank is a collection of 100 recipes from soups to sweets using the peanut. If you're a fan of Jimmy Carter, his favorite peanut brittle is included.

The gourmet pressed for time will find her answers in "The New Ten Minute Gourmet Cookbook" by Yvonne Torr. It contains 147 fabulous, foolproof gourmet dishes, each in 10 minutes or less.

If you take your interior decorating seriously, "The New York Times Book Of Interior Design And Decoration" by Norma Skurka presents a professional's guide to contemporary design and decoration. It is not impossible, however, for the average homemaker to pick up a fresh point of view or idea from the book.

The "mini-farmer" interested in growing meat for his family will find "Backyard Livestock" by Steven Thomas a comprehensive handbook on the art of becoming self-sufficient in meat production.

"Small-Town Operator" by Bernard Kamoroff will show you how to start and operate your own business, keep your books, pay your taxes and stay out of trouble!

If you have a tennis racket but don't know what to do with it, "Tennis Without Lessons" by Jim Brown should have you looking good on the court in no time!

For the country music fans, "He Walks With Me" by David Graham is an indepth story of the religious experiences of many of the country music stars.

A sympathetic and personal view of the Shakers has been presented by Jane Yolen in a book titled "Simple Gifts." The charming illustrations add to the small volume.

In "After The Gold Rush" by Archie Satterfield, the author deftly contrasts life in the Yukon today with the legends of the past, recreating old myths and establishing some new ones. It's a pleasant way to do some armchair traveling.

You might also want to steer that armchair in the direction of Paris. "Paris! Paris!" by Irwin Shaw and Ronald Searle presents a Paris no reader will soon forget.

World War II buffs will want to read "Convoy" by Martin Middlebrook. It's the story of the March 1943 convoy that became the turning point in the Battle for the Atlantic.

"Jury: The People vs Juan Corona" by Victor Villaseñor is a gripping story of the workings of a criminal jury and a rare look at what goes on inside jury rooms.

Most mystery readers know Agatha Christie. "Agatha Christie, First Lady Of Crime" edited by H.R.F. Keating is an interesting biographical look at the prolific writer of mysteries.

Jack The Ripper was the center of a real-life mystery. Now, Stephen Knight has written a book which lays to rest the myths about the killer. "Jack The Ripper, The Final Solution" points an accusing finger at more than one killer.

"Stonewall In The Valley" by Robert Tanner is the full-length study of Jackson's achievements in the Shenandoah with his Valley Army.

If we've missed your interest, stop by and let us help you keep your cool this weekend.

Such note shall be dated July 21, 1977, and shall mature on or before July 21, 1978.

Section 4. That such note shall be executed by the Mayor and Clerk-Treasurer and bear the seal of the corporation. It shall be payable at the office of The First National Bank of Circleville, Williamsport Branch, Williamsport, Ohio, and shall express upon its face the purpose for which it is issued and that it is issued pursuant to this ordinance.

Section 5. That subject to the rejection of such note by the officer in charge of the Bond Retirement Fund for investment in such fund, such anticipatory note shall be awarded and sold to The First National Bank, Circleville, Ohio, at the par value thereof together with any premium and accrued interest thereon, and the Clerk-Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to deliver such note, when executed, to such purchaser upon payment of such purchase price. The proceeds from the sale of such note, except any premium and accrued interest, shall be paid into the proper fund and used for the purpose for which such note is being issued under the provisions of this ordinance. Any premium and accrued interest received from the sale of such note shall be transferred to the Bond Retirement Fund to be applied to the payment of the principal and interest on such note in the manner provided by law.

Section 6. That the Village of Williamsport hereby covenants that it will restrict the use of the proceeds of this note in such manner and to such extent, if any, as may be necessary, after taking into account reasonable expectations at the time the debt is incurred, so that the note will not constitute arbitrage bonds under Section 108(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations prescribed under that section. The fiscal officer or any other officer, including the Clerk, having responsibility with respect to the issuance of this note, shall be authorized and directed to give an appropriate certificate on behalf of the Village, for inclusion in the transcript of proceedings setting forth the facts, estimates and circumstances and reasonable expectations pertaining to said Section 108(c) and regulations thereunder.

Section 7. That such note shall be the full general obligation of this municipality and the full faith, credit and revenue of this municipality are hereby pledged for the prompt payment of the same. The par value to be received from the sale of the bonds anticipated by such note and any excess funds resulting from the issuance of such note shall, to the extent necessary, be used for the retirement of such note and such note together with interest thereon, and are hereby pledged for such purpose while such note runs there shall be levied on all the taxable property in this municipality, in addition to all other taxes, a debt tax, not to exceed one percent (1%) of the full value of such property, which would have been levied if bonds had been issued without the prior issue of such note. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time as taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from such tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate fund and distinct from which, together with the interest collected on the same shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the principal and interest of such note or bonds in anticipation of which it is issued, when and as the same fall due; provided, however, that in each year to the extent that surplus revenues of the sewerage system are available for the payment of such note and bonds and are appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of such revenue so available and appropriated.

Section 8. That it is hereby determined that all acts, conditions and things required to be done precedent to and in the issuance of such note, in order to make it a legal, valid and binding obligation of this municipality, have happened, been done and performed in regular and due form as required by law; that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, will have been exceeded in the issuance of such note, in order to make it a legal, valid and binding obligation of this municipality, have happened, been done and performed in regular and due form as required by law; that no limitation of indebtedness or taxation, either statutory or constitutional, will have been exceeded in the issuance of such note.

Section 9. That the Clerk of this Council is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor.

Section 10. That it is found and determined that all formal actions of this Village concerning and relating to the adoption of this ordinance were adopted in an open meeting of this Council, and that all deliberations of this Council and of any of its committees that resulted in such formal action, were in meetings open to the public, in compliance with all legal requirements including Section 121.22 of the Ohio Revised Code.

Section 11. That this ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety of this Village, and for the further reason that the immediate issuance and sale of the note herein authorized is necessary to provide funds to enable the Village to retire its outstanding indebtedness and thereby preserve its credit, wherefore, this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and immediately after its passage.

Recognizing Management

No one in the Kremlin is talking about it publicly, but over the years the Marxists have decided they may have learned much about revolutions, but very little about managerial techniques. After all, they always have been opposed to the managerial class, right? Until recent years, that is. American managerial experts have been going to Moscow—by invitation. And Soviet managerial students have been sent to attend American schools of management. Technical institutes the Soviet Union has in abundance, but in management schools there is a void. What this may mean for the future is difficult to predict. But the Soviets are learning

America will always be racist. Kindness and understanding will not eradicate it. Racism has been a stain on the national character for over 300 years, and no sublime law of equality is going to eradicate it. The national posture is 13 percent black, 87 per cent white. It is to be hoped that both sides are sufficiently sophisticated to have left race riots, lynchings and arrogant discrimination behind us. But blacks remain conscious that they are black; whites do not forget their color. Social life between the two is rare.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the computer age of financing, with deals becoming more creative and sophisticated, the old country doctor approach to investment banking is giving way to the specialist.

On a recent transaction, said a Merrill Lynch man, the specialist team consisted of experts in commercial paper, industrial revenue bonds, private placements and leasing. Coordinator was the lead investment banker.

Not too many years ago one investment banker, dealing with a corporation's chief financial officer and chief executive, might have guided most of the financing needs of a company.

At Merrill Lynch, where various investment units have just been integrated into a Capital Markets Committee, some executives think the new competition in sophistication is more significant than talk of a capital shortage.

Times have changed. Companies that used to come into the capital markets once every two or three years now seek financing two or three times a year, said William Schreyer, executive vice president-capital markets.

Competition for money is intense. Plants today cost much more than just a decade ago, and the federal government is heavily into the market, competing for lendable funds because of its big deficit.

New regulations concerning pollution control, strip mining and reforestation add to the competition. So does the increasing competition for capital by foreign firms. So also does the need for energy exploration.

Competition in the use of money also has intensified; more so than before a company's success might depend on the use of creative rather than conventional financing. Asset financing, lease financing and the like are more common.

Competition also is growing among investment bankers for a piece of the action. The adviser who can come up with the most creative financing — that is, with the most money at the least cost — captures the business.

Equally demanding are lenders, who often seek tax shelters. "Any areas where the tax law is involved usually give rise to creativity," said J. Arthur Urcioli, managing director of the Capital Markets Group.

Urcioli lists five distinct ways in which a health care facility can be financed. Three of these involve federal programs. The other two involve financing in the tax-exempt markets, by creating a health authority that issues bonds or by a municipality itself issuing them.

"Around here," said Schreyer, "some ask are you precomputer or postcomputer," and to be sure, the electronic computer has permitted financing refinements that might have been dreamed yesterday but are being realized today.

The computer is both symbol and mechanical heart of the new financing, of which Merrill Lynch seeks a larger share by centralizing various units in the Capital Markets Group.

Schreyer, who heads the group, sees the new arrangement as being customer oriented rather than product-oriented, an approach which merchandisers in some other lines might think is somewhat late in coming.

Another advantage is also sought, said Schreyer. "We have a great sales force," he said without hint of pride or modesty. "But we also have great talent in other areas which we'll be trying to utilize more now."

With its sales force backed by the expertise of specialists, Merrill Lynch, already the biggest factor in capital markets, is convinced it can obtain an even larger share.

That market, it estimates, will require the raising of $47 billion in corporate financing, and $100 billion in federal, state and municipal financing, over the next 12 months.

It will be assembled in packages so intricate, so sophisticated, that it will be difficult for any one individual, pre or postcomputer, to conceive, structure or understand all of them.

through their own inefficiencies that there is more—much more—to progress than a classless, revolutionary structure can produce.

The concept that chiefs must know a little more than the Indians may be a difficult nostrum for the Marxists to swallow, but swallowing it they are, in large gulps.

Racism

By JIM BISHOP

Only highly placed blacks — senators, judges and mayors — regularly cross the shaky bridge. The so-called white liberals are, in this era, the most hypocritical.

They cultivate the black writers, artists and entertainers. This is tokenism of the worst sort. They do not darken the ghettos to feed the poor. They establish no scholarships to educate the neglected. The black servants serve food they cannot afford.

This country is approaching something called racism in reverse. In our universities and in public office we are jumping mediocre blacks over qualified whites merely to attain a balance.

This is as wrong as the ancient habit of crushing the intelligent black because of his color. We bus innocent black children many miles to white schools where they are taunted and mimicked until they fight. This, for 20 years, has led to an uneasy brotherhood behind school desks.

"Roots" was a masterpiece of history, but it brought to fiery life the insufferable humiliations the white man imposed upon his slaves. It is truth, but will it make a young black lawyer or physician think more kindly of the honkies of today?

The world is full of Archie Bunkers — white ones and black ones. No one can deny that in racial relations this nation has come a long way between the May, 1964, decision of the Supreme Court and now. That is law. People, as Martin Luther King once said, should be able to pick the good laws from the bad ones and disobey those with which they disagree.

If law is supreme, why do we have a Black Caucus in Congress? There is no White Caucus. If our congressmen are elected as qualified persons, rather than as blacks, whites, Jews and Puerto Ricans, why must this great body be divided along racial and ethnic lines?

Aren't we, first of all, Americans? The idealist's hopes are always too high. We have been racial and ethnic so long that even the new "equals" are playing the game. Nothing and no one is ever quite equal.

When the blacks drove the whites out of the Belgian Congo, black soldiers forced nuns to lie on the road and urinated on them. When it happened, I heard no protest from Andrew Young. Or anyone else.

Three black freedom riders were buried alive in Mississippi. The local police department grinned. It required the malignant FBI to find the bodies and start prosecution of the guilty.

This is not to say that either side is worse. At the moment, the scales of justice favor the black man. The weakness in justice is that it is not only blind but sometimes dumb.

The statutes have found no way of persuading the whites to accept the blacks after dark. When night falls, the white man sticks to his neighborhood and the black man remains in his area.

In many cities, it is dangerous for one to cross over into the other. When riots start, which side loots whose stores? In Watts and in Newark, black shopowners saved themselves by hanging signs in the front windows: "Soul Brother."

Racism is steeped in history. It is as two-sided as a coin. The black man has moved a long way economically. His sons get better educations than ever. But he doesn't love whiteness and sees no reason why he should. His atavistic instincts tell him that he has been on the bottom too long.

What he accords to the white man is civility. And this is what he gets in return. There is a wary cordiality between the two in business and in government.

I spoke to a police inspector in New York about it. The blacks had moved south around the edge of Central Park. They bought up hundreds of brownstone houses. "Now we have a new situation," the cop said. "When a Puerto Rican buys a house, the blacks move out."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

No joke. Our son came home two weeks ago with green hair. With a good shampooing it disappeared. He was as mystified as I. He and his friends had been swimming in a pool. I checked with the other families. None of the other boys had the look of a man from mars.

Mrs. T.D., Calif.

Dear Mrs. D.:
Very recently, this startling condition was reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

At the William Beaumont Army Medical Center in Texas, Colonel Richard Lampe described two cases of children whose hair turned green. Both were blond and were five years old. It appeared that the culprit was an excess of copper in the water of the swimming pool.

As with your son, the green color disappeared with shampoos and by staying out of such pools.

This phenomenon has been noted, too, by some people who work in copper industries. Dr. Lampe has also seen temporary green hair in persons who bleach their hair in the summer months and swim in chlorinated water.

Copper is sometimes put in the water to prevent the growth of algae. Acid corrosion of copper pipes may also be responsible. The condition is not a dangerous one.

My son is a Junior in high school.

Widespread Rains Boon To Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Widespread rains again have helped boost corn and soybean prospects in major crop areas of the United States and are also improving the outlook for grain in other key regions of the world.

As of Sunday, "rains in most of the Corn Belt spurred growth and development, pushing the 1977 crop toward an earlier-than-normal maturity," the department said Wednesday in a weekly review of crops and weather.

For example, the Illinois corn crop was 33 per cent in the "silk" stage of development, compared with 2 per cent a year ago and the long-term average of 6 per cent as of July 3.

But dry weather in the South was still hurting corn prospects in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, where the crop overall was rated "fair to good," officials said. The soybean crop nationally benefited from rains, with the exception of fields in the Southeast and parts of Virginia, the report said.

"Plant growth exceeded many recent years and development surpassed the normal," the report said. "Blooming reached 17 to 23 per cent in some of the northcentral states, compared with the 3 to 10 per cent normal."

Cotton was also developing rapidly and was rated in fair to good shape.

The winter wheat harvest nationally advanced to 56 per cent complete, slightly ahead of the normal pace. The Kansas crop was 55 per cent harvested, compared with 50 per cent last year and the normal progress of 60 per cent.

He's very interested in chemistry. With all the emphasis on cancer-forming drugs, do you think exposure to this type of work will eventually be dangerous to him?

Mrs. J. M., Ill.

Dear Mrs. M.:
Teachers of chemistry are alert to the possible harmful effects of some chemicals. Directives are constantly being given to them by experts to substitute non-toxic chemicals for potentially toxic ones.

Equipment in the laboratories is now being carefully screened in order to insure maximum safety. Exhaust fans and vented hoods minimize the exposure to concentrated chemicals.

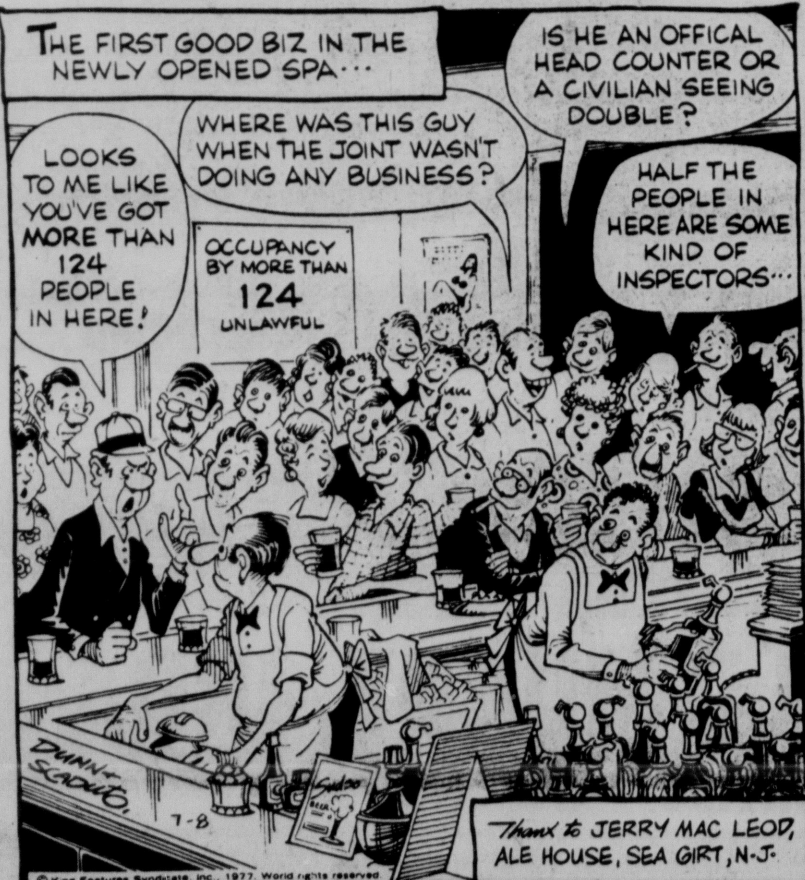

Proper inspection by teachers and health authorities are eliminating the hazards of laboratory experimentation.

Years ago, my mother had injections of gold for arthritis. Has this method been discontinued because the price of gold has gone so high?

Mr. E. N., N. H.

Dear Mr. N.:
The high cost of gold has in no way affected the use of gold salts. Although the technique slipped into disfavor for a while, today, there seems to be a resurgence of interest in this treatment for some forms of arthritis. It may be that the advent of cortisone and ACTH has modified the interest in gold salts.

Widespread Rains Boon To Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Widespread rains again have helped boost corn and soybean prospects in major crop areas of the United States and are also improving the outlook for grain in other key regions of the world.

As of Sunday, "rains in most of the Corn Belt spurred growth and development, pushing the 1977 crop toward an earlier-than-normal maturity," the department said Wednesday in a weekly review of crops and weather.

For example, the Illinois corn crop was 33 per cent in the "silk" stage of development, compared with 2 per cent a year ago and the long-term average of 6 per cent as of July 3.

But dry weather in the South was still hurting corn prospects in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, where the crop overall was rated "fair to good," officials said.

The soybean crop nationally benefited from rains, with the exception of fields in the Southeast and parts of Virginia, the report said.

"Plant growth exceeded many recent years and development surpassed the normal," the report said. "Blooming reached 17 to 23 per cent in some of the northcentral states, compared with the 3 to 10 per cent normal."

Cotton was also developing rapidly and was rated in fair to good shape.

The winter wheat harvest nationally advanced to 56 per cent complete, slightly ahead of the normal pace. The Kansas crop was 55 per cent harvested, compared with 50 per cent last year and the normal progress of 60 per cent by July 3.

Woman Winningest In Lottery Show

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fifty-one-year-old Jane Hughes has become the winningest champion in the Ohio Lottery Pot O' Gold show, taking $225,000 in three appearances on the weekly, televised program.

And the widow from Swanton gets to try again next week.

Mrs. Hughes won $80,000 Thursday night to add to her previous winnings. Her first big win was $95,000 on June 23 and she returned last week to pull in another $80,000.

Her reaction to setting a new record and winning all that money was "jellied panic," Mrs. Hughes said. "At this point I'm not sure of anything. I'm not sure of my own name."

Other Pot O' Gold winners were David Stecker, North Royalton, $8,500; Pauline Sackett, Lorain, $7,300; James Gavaghan, Cleveland, $7,700; Joseph Jenei Jr., Greentown, $8,500; and Bernard Danley, Canton, $8,100.

The TV bonus winners were Loretta Wozniak of Columbus, $50,000; Linda Gober, Cleveland, $10,000; and Ardellar Taylor, Cleveland, $5,000.

The numbers pulled in the weekly number drawing were 131, 768 and 28810.

Mrs. Hughes said she couldn't believe her triple win, and her daughter who was there with her "couldn't believe it either." She said her sister had teased her about getting her own television show and her brother had given her a lucky horseshoe ring to wear.

Mrs. Hughes raises Appaloosa horses and is vice president of the Appaloosa Youth Foundation. She assumed the post, which her husband had held, after his death four years ago.

A bookkeeper at Bettinger Farms in Swanton, Mrs. Hughes said her plans for the money are to "appreciate every bit of it" and to "put it in the bank."

Asked for advice on winning, she said, "just to do what hits you on the spur of the moment."

Highway Safety Act Torn Down?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Drafters of Ohio's 1968 omnibus highway safety act say they are disturbed that the legislature is going "soft" and easing some of its key provisions.

Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, a six-term veteran of the House, has made the charge each time that body has passed a bill he claims carries Ohio "in the wrong direction."

Thus far, the House has approved and sent the Senate bills letting judges decide whether to impose the currently mandated three-day jail term for drunk driving on first offenders, requiring the marking of police cars equipped with radar, and more recently, repealing Ohio's compulsory motorcycle helmet law, with certain exceptions.

"There is a definite move in the legislature to go soft and erode the omnibus highway safety act, which has been one of the most effective in the nation," Norris says.

Norris, whose hometown in northern Franklin County claims to be the birthplace of prohibition, said he was especially chagrined about the three-day jail term measure, although it was sponsored by a fellow Republican, Rep. Thomas A. Pottenger, R-20 Cincinnati.

Pottenger, a former judge, points out that many Ohio judges, for years, have used discretion in imposing the mandatory sentence. A recent Ohio Supreme Court decision upheld the authority of judges to substitute alcohol treatment programs.

The other measures likewise raise questions that are not partisan in nature. Constitutional rights of individuals are cited by those supporting the helmet repealer, over objections of the highway safety department which claims helmets save lives.

Rep. Harry C. Malott, D-87 Mount Orab, offered the bill to require radar vehicles to be marked as such, and also to have a flashing light mounted on their tops. Malott said he introduced the bill at the request of constituents who felt some communities are using radar to run speed traps.

Ask Disaster Aid For 4 Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes asked the Small Business Administration on Thursday to declare that residents and businesses in Sandusky, Portage, Paulding and Shelby counties are eligible for disaster loans.

The four counties suffered damage during storms on June 30. Uninsured losses are estimated to total $1,065,000 in Sandusky County, $35,000 in Portage County, $98,000 in Paulding County and $40,000 in Shelby County.

A disaster declaration by SBA would qualify residents and businesses for low-interest loans. Rhodes' request went to the SBA regional office in Chicago.

Court OKs Depreciation Juggling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A divided Supreme Court has ruled that utilities may use one method of figuring depreciation for tax purposes and another for computing rate bases.

The high court made the ruling on Wednesday in upholding a rate increase granted Ohio Bell Telephone Co. a year ago Friday.

The 5-2 decision sets a precedent by allowing utilities to use accelerated depreciation for income tax purposes but straight-line depreciation for the purpose of figuring the rate of return the utility should be allowed by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Accelerated depreciation is an accounting procedure which allows companies to write off the value of property and other assets more rapidly but over a shorter time span than normal. The method decreases taxes in the short run.

The challenge of the increase granted by PUCO was brought by the city of Akron and would have been upheld had justices Ralph Locher and Frank D. Celebrezze had their way.

Locher, in a blistering dissent in which Celebrezze concurred, said: "Simply stated, this means that Ohio Bell is being reimbursed by its ratepayers for over 45 million dollars of taxes which Ohio Bell has not paid to the United States Treasury."

But Justice Paul W. Brown, writing for the majority, saw the issue differently: "Clearly, depreciation is an elastic concept which is designed to function differently under different circumstances."

'Emergency' To Continue Winning Ways

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Producer Robert A. Cinader says he doesn't often put his personal prejudices into "Emergency!" but they do slip in occasionally.

Cinader has been at the helm of the NBC series since its debut in January 1972, and a year ago was appointed to the Los Angeles County Paramedics Commission.

He said his close association with the paramedics — he has been going out on rescue calls for the past six years with the firemen-medics — has given him some strong opinions about the operation.

"Sometimes I get my two functions mixed, that of producer and commission member," he said. "I try not to be get partisan, but the realism creeps in. I do it three or four times a year with subjects that deal with real ongoing paramedic problems that exist in the system in this county."

One such occasion can be witnessed at 8 p.m. Saturday, when paramedics Gage (Randy Mantooth) and DeSoto (Kevin Tighe) agonize through a recertification test in a show first seen last November. Cinader said he disagrees with the manner in which recertification is currently administered.

Cinader said he avoids soap box stands because "they're not terribly entertaining and it's unfair for me to express a partisan point of view because people who disagree with me don't have equal access to the air."

The show is centered on the activities of a fire station, where the two paramedics work, and a hospital, where Robert Fuller and Bobby Troup are doctors and Julie London is a nurse. The doctors direct the activities of the paramedics by radio.

"Emergency!" which some people dismiss as kid stuff, has had an astonishing effect across the country. When it came on the air there were only five or six paramedic units in the country. Now there are about 250, and the series has received some of the credit from officials for spreading this life-saving concept.

Cinader, who is co-creator of the series, said he doesn't worry about running out of rescue situations — he just uses the same ones over and over.

"If you put your primary focus on people rather than the situation, you can use the same situation 50 times," he said. "I've used heart attacks many times, both seriously and as comedy. I've had a man have a heart attack with a hooker, or a bookie in a locked room while he's taking bets."

"It isn't the situation. It's the reaction of people to it. You can play it for drama or comedy, as long as it's done with taste."

Cinader said he purposely uses comedy relief at the station house between the rescue sequences.

"Most people who develop dramatic shows tend to be too heavy-handed," he said. "But people in high tension jobs let off steam and tend to be a little flaky. They do it to relieve the tension."

"People think it's hoked up, but it really happens in fire stations. They play practical jokes on each other. And I think it gives the show a balance. The audience gets bored if you keep the same mood throughout a show."

"Emergency!" which is now in reruns, goes off the air as a regular series at the end of the summer. But that won't be the end of it.

NBC will present six two-hour movies based on the series, with the first concerning a high-rise building fire.

"The movies will be radically different in structure from the vignette style of the series," said Cinader. "You have to go for a disaster rather than the routine situations. One disaster will constitute the body of the show."

"You can't just make a two-hour show by making a one-hour show twice as long. It doesn't work."

Cinader said at least four of the shows would see Mantooth and Tighe getting out of Los Angeles. He said he is considering shows filmed on location in Seattle, New Orleans, Miami and Hawaii, where the two presumably would be on some sort of liaison assignment.

"I don't think I can do six two-hour shows in Los Angeles County," he said. "You can't have that many major disasters here. It wouldn't be realistic."

Among the disasters under consideration are a ship fire in Seattle, a hurricane in New Orleans or Miami and a volcano eruption in Hawaii.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Two Triangles Form A Wreck-Tangle

DEAR ABBY: I never did love my husband. I just married him for security, and I've been miserable ever since. I suppose I should tell you that I'm in love with my doctor. (That's why I've been so "sickly" much of the time.) My doctor is very unhappy at home. My husband is in love with my best friend, who is also trapped in a loveless marriage.

My husband would be much happier with my best friend, and I would be happier with my doctor. Isn't there some way this can be worked out so that nobody will be hurt? You only live once, you know.

LOVESICK

DEAR LOVESICK: If you and your husband were to terminate your marriage, you could marry your doctor and your husband could marry your best friend. (Assuming, of course, that they followed suit.) That would leave your best friend's husband and the doctor's wife at loose ends.

If you could sell them on EACH OTHER, you could turn a wreck-tangle into a sex-tangle. But with all the switching and hitching, there's apt to be some ditching. I recommend living with the ills you know, rather than flying to others you know not of.

DEAR ABBY: What should a girl do when a boy calls her at 7 o'clock in the evening and asks her if she wants to go out at 7:45? I really wanted to go, but I turned him down because I heard a girl should play hard to get.

SOPHOMORE

DEAR SOPHOMORE: If you wanted to go, you should have gone. There is nothing to be gained by playing "hard to get" if you're sitting home longing to go out.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would say something in your column about young people who telephone and ask, "Is Susie there?" And when they are asked, "Who is calling, please?" they either hang up or say, "Never mind, I'll call back later."

We have a 16-year-old daughter, and this happens at our home all the time, which is very annoying. Any suggestions on how to handle it? FINDLAY, OHIO

DEAR FINDLAY: Not only "young people," but also many who are old enough to know better, are guilty of this rudeness. For those who need a lesson, the proper procedure is: "Hello. This is Bill Forthright. May I please speak to Susie?"

(One father told me that a boy once called and asked, "Is Lois there?" The father simply replied, "Yes," and hung up. He later explained to Lois that the boy merely asked him a question, and he answered it.)

Niehous Still Alive, Newspapers Report

CARACUS, Venezuela (AP) — The newspaper El Mundo said Thursday kidnapped Ohio businessman William F. Niehous "is alive and is being held in a guerrilla camp" believed located in eastern Venezuela.

Quoting "unofficial sources," the independent newspaper said the abductors recently had contacted "a relative" of their victim and advised him that Niehous is alive.

El Mundo, which has a wide circulation in this South American country, identified the relative as Ernest Niehous, a cousin to the kidnapped man and a resident of Baltimore, Md.

However, William Niehous' wife, Donna, contacted in Toledo, said her husband does not have a cousin named Ernest or any relatives living in Baltimore.

According to the newspaper, Niehous' abductors told Ernest that his cousin "is alive and will be freed only after a 15 million dollar—about $3.5 million—ransom is paid."

"The money should be in small bills and should be delivered in foreign territory (outside Venezuela)," the newspaper quoted the abductors as saying.

Local authorities could not be reached for comment on the newspaper report, which followed another news story in the morning newspaper, El Nacional, regarding the Niehous abduction.

The two papers have no connection. In a two-paragraph item, El Nacional, a leading independent newspaper, said that local authorities "have revived the investigation of the Niehous kidnapping" in eastern Venezuela and other parts of the country.

"The government apparently is on to something big," El Nacional quoted a "police source" as saying.

Niehous, 45, of Toledo, Ohio, was seized from his Caracas residence by eight armed men on Feb. 27 last year.

Persons claiming to be the abductors and identifying themselves as members of a small ultra-leftist band called "Revolutionary Command Group, Operation Argimiro Gabaldon" later demanded payment of approximately $3.5 million for the release of their victim.

At the time of the kidnapping, Niehous was local manager of the Toledo-based Owens-Illinois glass manufacturing group.

Hoover Dam Engineering Wonder

By DIEDRE POLING
For The Herald

Hoover Dam, located in Black Canyon between Nevada and Arizona, is considered one of this country's seven modern civil engineering wonders.

This arch gravity dam was completed in 1935 and still holds the honor of being the Western Hemisphere's highest concrete dam. It stands 726 feet high.

Its reservoir, Lake Mead, extends nearly 115 miles into the canyon and is this country's largest man made lake. The reservoir has a shoreline of 550 miles, a depth of 500 feet and 26,100,000 acre-feet of water.

The water stored by this dam provides irrigation for over 750,000 acres in parts of southern California and Arizona. The lake contains two years average Colorado River flow. Electricity generated at the power plant at the base of the dam provides electricity for Nevada, Arizona and California.

Otherwise unusable, the desert lands of California and Arizona were converted to rich farmlands by the dam, producing fruits and vegetables. The average income amounts to hundreds of dollars per acre.

In one year, Hoover Dam and Lake Mead attracts over five million visitors for swimming, boating, skiing and fishing. Bluegill, bass, trout and catfish abound in the lake.

Lake Mead was named in honor of Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation from 1924 to 1936. Originally named Boulder Dam, Hoover Dam was renamed to honor President Herbert Hoover.

Because of the yearly flooding of the Colorado River, there was a need for its regulation. Representatives of the Colorado River Basin signed a pact in 1922 for construction to use the river's natural resources.

Congress passed in 1928 the Boulder Canyon Project Act which authorized the construction of Hoover Dam. Because of Hoover Dam, there has never been a flood or drought in the area it serves since its completion.

Steeple Chase On By Police

DENVER (AP) — The great steeple chase is under way.

"I can't imagine what someone would do with a church steeple," said the Rev. Gene Parrott, pastor of the Alameda Hills Baptist Church in the Denver suburb of Lakewood.

The church's 15-foot, 800-pound, white steeple was stolen this week from a parking lot where it had been set awaiting transfer to another church this weekend.

"They aren't going to believe this one," said the Lakewood police officer who took the missing-steeple report.

'Wolverton Mountain' Won't Die

NASHVILLE (AP) — Get out your gun, Clifton Clowers. Claude King still wants your daughter.

For 15 years, King has been singing about the gun-toting Clowers and his pretty young daughter in the melodious ballad "Wolverton Mountain."

The mountain melodrama continues because a rejuvenated King has re-recorded and re-released the 1962 song that sold 3 million copies.

"The record was still selling and we felt it should be recut," the lanky King said after a recent recording session. "Johnny Cash recut 'Folsom Prison Blues' and it did better the second time."

"The arrangement is a little different," he said. "It's a modern, fresh sound. They did some things I liked with the drums and guitars. But we didn't change it so much that people will be offended."

In the 15 years since the gentlemanly King made the song a classic, it's been recorded on albums by dozens of artists, including Bing Crosby and Nat King Cole.

"I wish I had a way of finding out all the people who have recorded it," said King, who lives in Shreveport, La. "Years ago, way over 100 had recorded it. My great-grandchildren will get checks from it. It's a standard like 'Stardust.'"

The song stayed on the charts for a year and was No. 1 for months in Japan, Sweden, Denmark, South Africa and Germany.

"The song meant everything to me," King reflected. "Who knows what might have happened to me. It opened up avenues."

"When I do a show, the people usually start yellin' for it. I usually do it twice; I do it and get it out of the way, then repeat it later."

King, 44, just began recording again after a two-year hiatus. He's on a lesser-known label now after 14 years with a major company.

"I've never had this much ambition and enthusiasm," he said. "I have a fresh outlook on everything. It's like a guy taking a vacation. You get back and you've got the enthusiasm. That's the way to describe myself."

"You can get lost in the shuffle on a big label, but here you feel like you belong, like you're wanted."

There will be no major changes in his style.

"I've always been partial to ballads and good story songs. It's what I really like. I guess it's because I was raised in the country and country people had a hard life. These songs relate to people and say it pretty well."

"Wolverton Mountain" was a true story. Sometimes these things are just waiting for you to use 'em."

King, who once drove Hank Williams' touring bus, has just released an album of his greatest hits. Besides "Wolverton Mountain," they include "All For The Love Of A Girl," "Sam Hill," "Laura (What's He Got That I Ain't Got)," "Mary's Vineyard," "Tiger Woman," "Little Buddy," "Chip 'N' Dale's Place,"

"Big River, Big Man" and "The Comancheros." "I still have one ambition," King said. "I've always wanted to do an album of sacred songs."

Circleville Senior Attends Paper Science Seminar

PAPERMAKING AT WMU — (From left) Kym White of Circleville High School, John Weber, and Paul Swodzinski; watch as John M. Fisher, associate professor of paper science and engineering at Western Michigan University, fills a beaker with paper pulp fibers preparatory to making hand sheets of paper in a WMU laboratory. They were among 25 high school seniors who on Friday, July 1, concluded a week-long science and engineering career program at WMU entitled "Forest Resources, Pulp and Paper, and the Environment."

A penetrating, week-long look at career possibilities in the paper chemistry and engineering industry concluded July 1 at Western Michigan University for 25 high school seniors-to-be in a program entitled "Forest Resources, Pulp and Paper, and the Environment."

Kimberly White, 545 N. Court St. attended the seminar. She will be a senior at Circleville High School. Seventeen of the group were from Michigan, the rest from four other states, including New Jersey, West Virginia, Ohio and Wisconsin.

While at Western, the students took part in various paper science and engineering laboratory experiments, including making paper by hand from wood pulp fibers. They explored the interrelationships of science and engineering in the pulp and paper and forest products industries as well.

Field trips to area paper mills also were on their agenda in addition to seminars, lectures and informal discussions.

This was the second group of high school students to spend a week at

WMU this summer under the auspices of the Paper Technology Foundation, Inc., which covered all student expenses while here, except for travel to and from WMU and incidentals.

Hearse Thief Doesn't Learn

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Ray Higgenbottom said he "wanted to ride in a big car just like the president." So he stole a hearse — twice.

Higgenbottom, 19, tried to steal a hearse Thursday, but police released him after the funeral home declined to press charges.

From police headquarters he went back to the Muehligh Funeral home, grabbed a funeral flag, jumped into the same hearse — by now in a garage — drove it through a wooden wall and up the street.

Chased by police again, he was caught when the hearse ran into an embankment at — naturally — Fairview Cemetery after hitting another car and injuring its driver.

He was held for arraignment today on a variety of charges.

Drug Test OK Sought By Hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A license to test the controversial drug sodium valproate (SV), an anticonvulsant used for epileptics, is being sought by Columbus Children's Hospital.

Dr. Earl S. Sherard Jr., hospital chief of neurology, is readying a proposal to the Food and Drug Administration this week for the license. If approved, Columbus Children's would become the first community hospital in the country to experiment with the drug.

Later this month Dr. Sherard plans to go to Birmingham, England, to discuss SV with the leading expert, Dr. Peter Jeavons.

Sherard's FDA proposal will outline a test period of 18 months to two years, he said. He would test it first with young patients whose epileptic seizures have not been controlled by any available therapy. Then, "I would start using it as the first drug."

The only present SV study is being done by the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md.

Abbott Laboratories has been licensed to investigate the drug since 1974, but SV is not expected to be available to U.S. patients for at least two more years.

"There is little or no doubt this is probably the drug of choice in generalized epilepsy," Sherard said. "It's been around since 1971, and is in use in England, France, South America and Canada."

Sherard said SV has been effective alone or with other drugs in controlling epileptic seizures. It has few side effects "and has not caused one fatality among roughly 120,000 people receiving it."

"The money should be in small bills and should be delivered in foreign territory (outside Venezuela)," the newspaper quoted the abductors as saying.

Local authorities could not be reached for comment on the newspaper report, which followed another news story in the morning newspaper, El Nacional, regarding the Niehous abduction.

The two papers have no connection. In a two-paragraph item, El Nacional, a leading independent newspaper, said that local authorities "have revived the investigation of the Niehous kidnapping" in eastern Venezuela and other parts of the country.

"The government apparently is on to something big," El Nacional quoted a "police source" as saying.

Niehous, 45, of Toledo, Ohio, was seized from his Caracas residence by eight armed men on Feb. 27 last year. Persons claiming to be the abductors and identifying themselves as members of a small ultra-leftist band called "Revolutionary Command Group, Operation Argimiro Gabaldon" later demanded payment of approximately $3.5 million for the release of their victim.

At the time of the kidnapping, Niehous was local manager of the Toledo-based Owens-Illinois glass manufacturing group.

Hoover Dam Engineering Wonder

By DIEDRE POLING
For The Herald

Hoover Dam, located in Black Canyon between Nevada and Arizona, is considered one of this country's seven modern civil engineering wonders.

This arch gravity dam was completed in 1935 and still holds the honor of being the Western Hemisphere's highest concrete dam. It stands 726 feet high.

Its reservoir, Lake Mead, extends nearly 115 miles into the canyon and is this country's largest man made lake. The reservoir has a shoreline of 550 miles, a depth of 500 feet and 28,100,000 acre-feet of water.

The water stored by this dam provides irrigation for over 750,000 acres in parts of southern California and Arizona. The lake contains two years average Colorado River flow. Electricity generated at the power plant at the base of the dam provides electricity for Nevada, Arizona and California.

Otherwise unusable, the desert lands of California and Arizona were converted to rich farmlands by the dam, producing fruits and vegetables. The average income amounts to hundreds of dollars per acre.

In one year, Hoover Dam and Lake Mead attracts over five million visitors for swimming, boating, skiing and fishing. Bluegill, bass, trout and catfish abound in the lake.

Lake Mead was named in honor of Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation from 1924 to 1936. Originally named Boulder Dam, Hoover Dam was renamed to honor President Herbert Hoover.

Because of the yearly flooding of the Colorado River, there was a need for its regulation. Representatives of the Colorado River Basin signed a pact in 1922 for construction to use the river's natural resources.

Congress passed in 1928 the Boulder Canyon Project Act which authorized the construction of Hoover Dam. Because of Hoover Dam, there has never been a flood or drought in the area it serves since its completion.

Steeple Chase On By Police

DENVER (AP) — The great steeple chase is under way. "I can't imagine what someone would do with a church steeple," said the Rev. Gene Parrott, pastor of the Alameda Hills Baptist Church in the Denver suburb of Lakewood. The church's 15-foot, 800-pound, white steeple was stolen this week from a parking lot where it had been set awaiting transfer to another church this weekend.

"They aren't going to believe this one," said the Lakewood police officer who took the missing-steeple report.

'Wolverton Mountain' Won't Die

NASHVILLE (AP) — Get out your gun, Clifton Flowers. Claude King still wants your daughter.

For 15 years, King has been singing about the gun-toting Flowers and his pretty young daughter in the melodious ballad "Wolverton Mountain."

The mountain melodrama continues because a rejuvenated King has re-recorded and re-released the 1962 song that sold 3 million copies.

"The record was still selling and we felt it should be recut," the lanky King said after a recent recording session. "Johnny Cash recut 'Folsom Prison Blues' and it did better the second time."

"The arrangement is a little different," he said. "It's a modern, fresh sound. They did some things I liked with the drums and guitars. But we didn't change it so much that people will be offended."

In the 15 years since the gentlemanly King made the song a classic, it's been recorded on albums by dozens of artists, including Bing Crosby and Nat King Cole.

"I wish I had a way of finding out all the people who have recorded it," said King, who lives in Shreveport, La. "Years ago, way over 100 had recorded it. My great-grandchildren will get checks from it. It's a standard like 'Stardust.'"

The song stayed on the charts for a year and was No. 1 for months in Japan, Sweden, Denmark, South Africa and Germany.

"The song meant everything to me," King reflected. "Who knows what might have happened to me. It opened up avenues."

"When I do a show, the people usually start yellin' for it. I usually do it twice; I do it and get it out of the way, then repeat it later."

King, 44, just began recording again after a two-year hiatus. He's on a lesser-known label now after 14 years with a major company.

"I've never had this much ambition and enthusiasm," he said. "I have a fresh outlook on everything. It's like a guy taking a vacation. You get back and you've got the enthusiasm. That's the way to describe myself."

"You can get lost in the shuffle on a big label, but here you feel like you belong, like you're wanted."

There will be no major changes in his style. "I've always been partial to ballads and good story songs. It's what I really like. I guess it's because I was raised in the country and country people had a hard life. These songs relate to people and say it pretty well."

"Wolverton Mountain" was a true story. Sometimes these things are just waiting for you to use 'em."

King, who once drove Hank Williams' touring bus, has just released an album of his greatest hits. Besides "Wolverton Mountain," they include "All For The Love Of A Girl," "Sam Hill," "Laura (What's He Got That I Ain't Got)," "Mary's Vineyard," "Tiger Woman," "Little Buddy," "Chip 'N' Dale's Place,"

"Big River, Big Man" and "The Comancheros." "I still have one ambition," King said. "I've always wanted to do an album of sacred songs."

Circleville Senior Attends Paper Science Seminar

PAPERMAKING AT WMU — (From left) Kym White of Circleville High School, John Weber, and Paul Swodzinski; watch as John M. Fisher, associate professor of paper science and engineering at Western Michigan University, fills a beaker with paper pulp fibers preparatory to making hand sheets of paper in a WMU laboratory. They were among 25 high school seniors who on Friday, July 1, concluded a week-long science and engineering career program at WMU entitled "Forest Resources, Pulp and Paper, and the Environment."

A penetrating, week-long look at career possibilities in the paper chemistry and engineering industry concluded July 1 at Western Michigan University for 25 high school seniors-to-be in a program entitled "Forest Resources, Pulp and Paper, and the Environment."

Kimberly White, 545 N. Court St. attended the seminar. She will be a senior at Circleville High School. Seventeen of the group were from Michigan, the rest from four other states, including New Jersey, West Virginia, Ohio and Wisconsin.

While at Western, the students took part in various paper science and engineering laboratory experiments, including making paper by hand from wood pulp fibers. They explored the interrelationships of science and engineering in the pulp and paper and forest products industries as well.

Field trips to area paper mills also were on their agenda in addition to seminars, lectures and informal discussions.

This was the second group of high school students to spend a week at

WMU this summer under the auspices of the Paper Technology Foundation, Inc., which covered all student expenses while here, except for travel to and from WMU and incidentals.

Hearse Thief Doesn't Learn

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Ray Higgenbottom said he "wanted to ride in a big car just like the president." So he stole a hearse — twice.

Higgenbottom, 19, tried to steal a hearse Thursday, but police released him after the funeral home declined to press charges.

From police headquarters he went back to the Muehlig Funeral home, grabbed a funeral flag, jumped into the same hearse — by now in a garage — drove it through a wooden wall and up the street.

Chased by police again, he was caught when the hearse ran into an embankment at — naturally — Fairview Cemetery after hitting another car and injuring its driver.

He was held for arraignment today on a variety of charges.

Cows Become Missionaries

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — International charities which try to nourish people in starving nations often fight a losing battle, but one group has a method that comes close to providing a perpetual source of food.

When a Heifer Project International plane lands in an underdeveloped country, a herd of cows strolls down the ramp.

The theory is to provide unending sustenance, according to Bill Peck, director of Heifer's Pacific Central Regional Office here. He said farm machinery and equipment may break down, crops may fail, supplies of food and medicine may run out ...

"But cows give milk until they die, provide offspring to keep up the supply and serve as catalysts around which community development can happen."

Heifer's 40-year-history abounds with examples that support Beck's claim. Cattle shipped to the Japanese island of Hokkaido in the early 1960s spawned that country's booming dairy industry, Beck said.

And on a smaller but no less dramatic level, 10 head of cattle flown to a mountain village near Pusan, Korea, several years ago have grown to a herd of 300, triggering construction of a milk products plant that revived the area's economy.

Now a $2.5 million-a-year operation that has sent 58,000 head into 96 countries, Heifer Project International grew out of one clergyman's haunting memory of starving Spanish civil war refugees.

Dan West, who died in 1970 at age 76, said he founded the organization because he could not shake the sight of a young girl dying of tuberculosis who might have been saved had she had enough milk.

That grim symbol of global hunger made him dedicate his life to providing as much of the world as possible with nature's most perfect food.

Besides the regional office here, West opened branches in Plymouth, Mass., Goshen, Ind., El Monte, Calif., and Heifer's world headquarters in Little Rock, Ark.

A national staff of about 20 administrators and "an army of volunteers" administer Heifer, Beck said. Revenue comes primarily from fund-raising efforts of the mission boards of various churches, and donors have been generous.

"Some people have told me, this is my best charity dollar," Beck said. "They know nobody can take a piece of a cow and use it for his own gain."

Although Heifer got its name for delivering cattle, the organization also transports goats, sheep, poultry, honey bees, pigs and rabbits. Last year shipments took animals to 26 foreign nations and 14 states. In this country Heifer specializes in launching beef cattle projects on Indian reservations.

Beck said Heifer depends on its contacts to alert the organization to a region's needs. Applications for Heifer animals begin when a missionary, Peace Corps worker or Heifer representative demonstrates a region's need. The foreign contact then prepares his community before the animals are shipped by teaching recipients how to care for them.

Cows Become Missionaries

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — International charities which try to nourish people in starving nations often fight a losing battle, but one group has a method that comes close to providing a perpetual source of food.

When a Heifer Project International plane lands in an underdeveloped country, a herd of cows strolls down the ramp.

The theory is to provide unending sustenance, according to Bill Peck, director of Heifer's Pacific Central Regional Office here. He said farm machinery and equipment may break down, crops may fail, supplies of food and medicine may run out ...

"But cows give milk until they die, provide offspring to keep up the supply and serve as catalysts around which community development can happen."

Heifer's 40-year-history abounds with examples that support Beck's claim. Cattle shipped to the Japanese island of Hokkaido in the early 1960s spawned that country's booming dairy industry, Beck said.

And on a smaller but no less dramatic level, 10 head of cattle flown to a mountain village near Pusan, Korea, several years ago have grown to a herd of 300, triggering construction of a milk products plant that revived the area's economy.

Now a $2.5 million-a-year operation that has sent 58,000 head into 96 countries, Heifer Project International grew out of one clergyman's haunting memory of starving Spanish civil war refugees.

Dan West, who died in 1970 at age 76, said he founded the organization because he could not shake the sight of a young girl dying of tuberculosis who might have been saved had she had enough milk.

That grim symbol of global hunger made him dedicate his life to providing as much of the world as possible with nature's most perfect food.

Besides the regional office here, West opened branches in Plymouth, Mass., Goshen, Ind., El Monte, Calif., and Heifer's world headquarters in Little Rock, Ark.

A national staff of about 20 administrators and "an army of volunteers" administer Heifer, Beck said. Revenue comes primarily from fund-raising efforts of the mission boards of various churches, and donors have been generous.

"Some people have told me, this is my best charity dollar," Beck said. "They know nobody can take a piece of a cow and use it for his own gain."

Although Heifer got its name for delivering cattle, the organization also transports goats, sheep, poultry, honey bees, pigs and rabbits. Last year shipments took animals to 26 foreign nations and 14 states. In this country Heifer specializes in launching beef cattle projects on Indian reservations.

Beck said Heifer depends on its contacts to alert the organization to a region's needs. Applications for Heifer animals begin when a missionary, Peace Corps worker or Heifer representative demonstrates a region's need. The foreign contact then prepares his community before the animals are shipped by teaching recipients how to care for them.

Japanese Party Faces Vote Crisis

TOKYO (AP) — The conservative party which has governed Japan for 29 years is facing the possibility of its second election setback in seven months.

Opinion polls indicate the election on Sunday to fill half the seats in the upper house of the Diet, the Japanese parliament, may leave Prime Minister

Dayton Plans Fluoridation

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The City of Dayton expects to begin fluoridating its water supply on Sept. 1, according to Water Director Walt Farr.

"We are under orders from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency to add fluoride by then, and the city has signed a consent order saying it will do so," Farr said.

He said all of the necessary equipment has been ordered and will be delivered shortly to be installed by city workers. Some 180 tons of fluoride also has been purchased.

In addition to Dayton, the system provides drinking water to Trotwood, Vandalia, Brookville, part of Greene County and parts of northeastern and northwestern Montgomery County.

A 1969 state law required all local governments to fluoridate water unless residents exempted the community by referendum. Dayton took on vote, and the courts ruled that a 1965 charter amendment, approved by voters, which prohibited fluoridation did not exempt the city from the state law.

Takeo Fukuda's Liberal-Democratic party five seats short of a majority.

The polls predict the Socialists, the biggest opposition party, and the Communists will also lose ground while the Buddhist Komeito (Clean Government) and Democratic Socialist parties will pick up seats.

Shaken by the Lockheed payoff scandal and growing public distaste for their close ties with big business, the Liberal-Democrats lost their majority in the lower house in the election last December. They maintained control of the government by persuading eight independents to join them.

The Lockheed scandal became almost a nonissue in the current lackluster, three-week campaign as candidates on all sides either played it down or avoided it entirely. But other polls showed that 70 per cent of those questioned believe the whole story has not come out yet.

The Liberal-Democrats' firm hold on the Diet began to loosen in the last upper house election three years ago. They ended up with a total of 126 seats, or exactly half the membership. This time they are expected to lose five seats to the New Liberal Club, a splinter group formed by younger Liberal-Democrats fed up with their elders.

The members of the upper house, or House of Councillors, are elected for six-year terms. They can delay legislation approved by the House of Representatives by voting it down, but a two-thirds vote in the lower house overrides the veto. Since the Liberal-Democrats no longer have that majority, loss of their majority in the upper house could cause trouble for government legislation.

Cloudiness and thundershowers were expected to hold temperatures down a little in the northern two thirds of Ohio today, but cooler, dryer air is not expected in the state until tomorrow.

High temperatures today were expected to be in the mid 80s in the north to the low 90s south. Lows tonight will be in the mid 60s to low 70s.

The National Weather Service says showers will diminish and clearing will begin during the day on Saturday. Temperatures will lower to mostly low and mid 80s as less humid air spreads over the state.

Temperatures were near the 70-degree mark in most areas of Ohio Thursday night. Severe thunderstorms early in the evening caused some damage in the northeast area. Funnel clouds were sighted, and oneinch hail fell in the Cleveland area. Wind damage was reported in Cuyahoga and Ashtabula counties.

The extended outlook for Ohio calls for fair weather Sunday and Monday and a chance of showers Tuesday. Highs will be in the 70s Sunday and in the 80s Monday and Tuesday. Lows in the upper 50s to 60s.

Japanese Party Faces Vote Crisis

TOKYO (AP) — The conservative party which has governed Japan for 29 years is facing the possibility of its second election setback in seven months.

Opinion polls indicate the election on Sunday to fill half the seats in the upper house of the Diet, the Japanese parliament, may leave Prime Minister

Dayton Plans Fluoridation

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The City of Dayton expects to begin fluoridating its water supply on Sept. 1, according to Water Director Walt Farr.

"We are under orders from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency to add fluoride by then, and the city has signed a consent order saying it will do so," Farr said.

He said all of the necessary equipment has been ordered and will be delivered shortly to be installed by city workers. Some 180 tons of fluoride also has been purchased.

In addition to Dayton, the system provides drinking water to Trotwood, Vandalia, Brookville, part of Greene County and parts of northeastern and northwestern Montgomery County.

A 1969 state law required all local governments to fluoridate water unless residents exempted the community by referendum. Dayton took on vote, and the courts ruled that a 1965 charter amendment, approved by voters, which prohibited fluoridation did not exempt the city from the state law.

Takeo Fukuda's Liberal-Democratic party five seats short of a majority.

The polls predict the Socialists, the biggest opposition party, and the Communists will also lose ground while the Buddhist Komeito (Clean Government) and Democratic Socialist parties will pick up seats.

Shaken by the Lockheed payoff scandal and growing public distaste for their close ties with big business, the Liberal-Democrats lost their majority in the lower house in the election last December. They maintained control of the government by persuading eight independents to join them.

The Lockheed scandal became almost a nonissue in the current lackluster, three-week campaign as candidates on all sides either played it down or avoided it entirely. But other polls showed that 70 per cent of those questioned believe the whole story has not come out yet.

The Liberal-Democrats' firm hold on the Diet began to loosen in the last upper house election three years ago. They ended up with a total of 126 seats, or exactly half the membership. This time they are expected to lose five seats to the New Liberal Club, a splinter group formed by younger Liberal-Democrats fed up with their elders.

The members of the upper house, or House of Councillors, are elected for six-year terms. They can delay legislation approved by the House of Representatives by voting it down, but a two-thirds vote in the lower house overrides the veto. Since the Liberal-Democrats no longer have that majority, loss of their majority in the upper house could cause trouble for government legislation.

Changes To Amphitheatre Center Around Convenience

SMOOTH RIDE — The 27,000-foot access road to Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre has been resurfaced along with several other improvements to the area's structure.

Patrons attending the 1977 production of "Tecumseh!" will notice many changes throughout the Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre in the area of customer convenience, according to W. L. Mundell, President of the Scioto Society, and the show's producer-director.

To eliminate the rough and sometimes dusty drive to the Amphitheatre, the 2,700 foot access road has been surfaced and the parking bays expanded.

Improving the parking lot is only part of the $125,000 development program being completed on the Mountain, Mundell said. The Amphitheatre now has Ross County water service funded through a $72,000 block grant from the Department of Housing and Urban development.

Other improvements include the addition of complete food service facilities in the rain shelter, to better accommodate the increasingly popular pre-show buffet; expansions doubling the size of the box office and gift shop and improved access for the handicapped.

Although these changes are of a subtle nature, Mundell said, we feel our patrons will enjoy the added convenience.

"Tecumseh!" America's most popular outdoor drama, is now playing Tuesday through Sunday at 8:30 p.m. through September 4th. The overture starts at 7:55 p.m. and a reservation-only buffet is available after 5:45 p.m. each night.

Rainfall May Slow Farming

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

A frontal system was moving across Ohio today and was to reach the Ohio River by late today. Showers and thundershowers are expected to develop in association with the front and a chance of showers will continue tonight and Saturday. Fair weather Sunday and Monday, followed by showers again about Tuesday.

Field Operations — Field work in scattered locations will be interrupted today as showers begin to form ahead of the advancing front. Rainfall amounts will be light in general with a possibility of locally heavy amounts in isolated areas. Most areas will dry quickly Sunday and no delay in returning to the field is expected other than on a local basis, where showers are heavy.

Working Conditions — Very warm and humid conditions will continue today with temperatures in the mid 80s north to low 90s south. Cooler and less humid air will flow across Ohio Saturday and provide better working conditions through Sunday, then warmer again Monday and Tuesday.

Haying and Harvesting — High humidity and threat of rain showers will reduce drying potential at times today. Combining and hay packaging will be possible where moisture content is already nearly ideal, but some areas will experience wetting today and Saturday with good drying on Sunday allowing a return to the field by Monday at the latest.

Spraying — Threat of rain and windy conditions today and Saturday will make uniform applications difficult. The outlook indicates that the period Sunday morning through Monday morning should be excellent spraying weather, with relatively light winds until about midmorning on Monday.

Middletown Big Drug Center

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Drug enforcement officials in this city of 52,000 are concerned with factors that make Middletown "a drawing card for the hard drug business" in southwestern Ohio.

Residents were stunned this week when federal investigators uncovered a major heroin distribution operation that used a Middletown jewelry store as its hub.

Thirteen of 37 persons arrested by federal agents in a wave of secret indictments dealing with hard drugs and stolen property came from the Middletown area.

"There are factors that might make Middletown a drawing card for the hard drug business," said Middletown Police Chief Russell Dwyer.

A major one is Middletown's geographical proximity to Cincinnati and Dayton, two of the largest cities in the state, he said.

"We have a good financial base, a good racial mix; the city is a good industrial city with high-paying jobs for young people; and we're close to metropolitan areas, with easy access to interstate highways," Dwyer said.

A Cincinnati drug enforcement officer, who requested anonymity, agrees with Dwyer.

"They may move their operations to Middletown, where they have access to Interstate 75, and still deal in Cincinnati. The same thing may apply to dealers from Dayton," he said.

"My own personal inclination is to think that for a community this size, we have a substantial drug use and abuse," said Dwyer, who founded his department's narcotics unit more than a decade ago.

Gary Nichols, assistant director of Unity House, a city-funded drug abuse treatment center, estimates Middletown has 300-500 hard drug users.

"For a town this size, compared to other cities in the area, Middletown has a significant hard drug problem. We deal with a lot of heroin cases," he said.

Nichols said two Middletown residents died from heroin overdoses this year, and there were two heroin-related deaths in 1976. Sixteen months ago Middletown police were confident they had smashed a heroin ring after they arrested 10 persons in a single raid.

Not everyone believes Middletown has become a hard drug haven.

City Commissioner James Saunders, whose son died of a heroin overdose in 1974, rejects that contention.

"I don't think things are any worse in Middletown than in any other city. There's heroin rings in every city in the country. I just think our law enforcement officers should be complimented for their efforts here," Saunders said.

Budget Discussed At Chamber Meeting

The Circleville area Chamber of Commerce budget was the main topic at the board of director's meeting Tuesday.

Chairman of the budget committee Asa Elsea said it should be ready for presentation at the August meeting. He asked that all committees turn in reports by the end of the week.

Elsea said the two-year plan in due increase will not have to go into affect until a future date. The initial raise was implemented in 1976.

Tom Tootle, legislative chairman, reported that June meetings with Hugh Barnhill and Bill Nye were very successful. No more meetings will be scheduled until September.

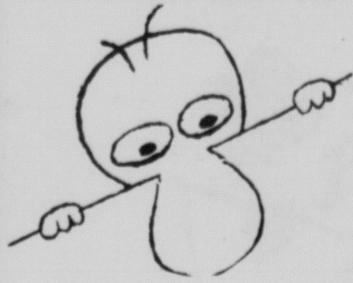

He related that the chamber is in favor of a product liability bill in the Ohio Senate. Local manufacturing firms should be for the bill, which deals with a shorter statute of limitations.

President Steve Stevenson announced that Brown's Office Equipment was a new chamber member for June.

The advertisement listing all chamber members was mentioned in the president's report. Executive Secretary Jean Ankrom said that everybody entering the chamber office is enjoying the air conditioner installed this year.

Bonnie Hildenbrand told the chamber directors that she was concerned with the condition of the downtown sidewalks. Stevenson said to direct the matter to the retail merchants committee.

President Steve Stevenson announced that Brown's Office Equipment was a new chamber member for June.

The advertisement listing all chamber members was mentioned in the president's report. Executive Secretary Jean Ankrom said that everybody entering the chamber office is enjoying the air conditioner installed this year.

Bonnie Hildenbrand told the chamber directors that she was concerned with the condition of the downtown sidewalks. Stevenson said to direct the matter to the retail merchants committee.

Cincy Suds Shaken Up

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Suds have a new manager today after a shakeup that cost the club its top pitcher.

Walter Wherry of Covington, Ky., replaced pitcher-manager Clyde "Soapy" Stafford, who was fired Thursday by the new general manager of the American Professional Slo-Pitch League club.

Wherry, a former standout pitcher in the Cincinnati area, takes over a slumping club that was considered a strong challenger in its division prior to the season.

The Suds have slipped to 11-13 for the season, losing seven of their last eight games.

Stafford, 39, said he was informed of his dismissal by club general manager Glenn Reed. "He said we weren't winning. He hasn't liked me since taking over the club," said Stafford, of Ft. Thomas, Ky.

Stafford, known throughout the league for his unorthodox deliveries from between his legs and behind the back, defended his short term as manager.

He said his 10.2 earned run average was lowest in the league.

Schmidt, Phils Top Mets, 6-4

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Mike Schmidt never has enjoyed playing baseball more — but the same cannot be said of the pitchers he faces.

Schmidt's bat has been a thorn in the side of National League moundsmen of late, and Thursday night he continued to bring more grief to them.

The red-hot Philadelphia Phillies' slugger smashed a three-run homer, leading a 6-4 victory over the New York Mets, and afterwards confessed, "I'm having more fun now than I've ever had in baseball."

Schmidt's euphoria is understandable. He has been on base 22 of his last 26 at-bats and admits: "I'm placing all the pressure on the guy on the mound. I'm hitting. He knows I'm a tough out now."

In other National League games, the Chicago Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 2-0, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the San Diego Padres 5-1 and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Houston Astros 7-4.

Schmidt socked his homer in the third inning, and Greg Luzinski's single and an error produced the winning runs in the fourth for Philadelphia.

Garry Maddox opened the Phillies' third with a single and took third on Larry Bowa's double. Schmidt then hit his 25th homer of the season, giving the Phillies a 3-0 lead against Nino Espinosa, 4-7.

Cubs 2, Cardinals 0

Rick Reuschel recorded his 12th victory and Larry Bittner smacked his second homer in as many games as Chicago defeated St. Louis. Staked to a first-inning unearned run, Reuschel, who has lost twice, struggled all the way, allowing nine hits, and retired the side in order only twice. The shutout ran his streak of scoreless innings to 16 2-3.

Giants 5, Padres 2

Rookie left-hander Bob Knepper teamed with Randy Moffitt on a five-hitter as San Francisco snapped an eight-game losing streak by beating San Diego.

Knepper, 2-3, had a one-hit shutout until Gene Tenace's double, Bill Almon's single and Mike Champion's double-play grounder produced San Diego's run in the fifth. He allowed five hits through eight innings. Moffitt pitched the ninth.

The Giants, going without an error for the first time in 14 games, got a two-run single from Gary Thomasson.

Dodgers 7, Astros 4

Low Scores Mark Quad Cities Open

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (AP) — Television personality Ed McMahon pulled some tendons in his wrist being a good host at the $125,000 Quad Cities Open Golf Tournament. One of the leaders suffered muscle spasms in his back for a year and a half. One of the gaggle of players in second place wrenched his back a week ago and may leave the tour after this week.

But scores are low in this bad-back open over the 6,620-yard, par-71 Oakwood Country Club course. Par threatens to be the cutoff as 82 players shot par or better Thursday.

Artie McNickle, a non-winner in five years on the tour, fired a six-under-par 65 to tie early-finishers Phil Hancock and Wayne Levi for the first-round lead.

"I'm trying to have fun — it's supposed to be a fun game," said McNickle, who finally licked the back problem last December after embarking on a rigorous weightlifting program.

Florentino Molina and nine others, including PGA champion Dave Stockton, were one stroke back, five under par.

Molina, who hasn't missed a tour event since the Citrus Open in March, turned in a 66 despite a painful back.

The other co-leaders won their tour cards just last month. Hancock, medalist in the spring PGA school, has been in the money in all three tournaments since then, and runnerup Levi has been there twice.

"I'm anxious. I've been waiting six months to get here," said Hancock, 23, a three-time college All-American who missed getting his card by one stroke

Whitley Holding Out On Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — The player agent handling negotiations for Houston All-American Wilson Whitley, a first-round draft choice of the Cincinnati Bengals, said he has instructed his client "not to step foot in Ohio until he signs."

It was the first disclosure that the National Football League club is embroiled in a bitter contract dispute with the highly-heralded defensive lineman.

He faces a $225-a-day fine if he does not report to rookie camp by July 18.

"Just say we're substantially far apart," said agent Tom Crawford. He said he would be surprised if the salary conflict is resolved by rookie camp.

Crawford said he is not seeking an outrageous package. He said a key hurdle is the Bengals' push for a long-term contract between four and six years.

He said Whitley, a 6-foot-3, 266-pounder, won't sign for longer than four years and is seeking a salary of approximately $100,000 a year.

"I'm not holding them out. We're not asking for quarterback's pay. We're not afraid to let Wilson play on a short-term contract and let the market dictate what he's worth. Because, barring injuries, I know what Wilson Whitley is going to be worth," Crawford said.

Florentino Molina and nine others, including PGA champion Dave Stockton, were one stroke back, five under par.

Molina, who hasn't missed a tour event since the Citrus Open in March, turned in a 66 despite a painful back.

The other co-leaders won their tour cards just last month. Hancock, medalist in the spring PGA school, has been in the money in all three tournaments since then, and runnerup Levi has been there twice.

"I'm anxious. I've been waiting six months to get here," said Hancock, 23, a three-time college All-American who missed getting his card by one stroke

Whitley Holding Out On Bengals

CINCINNATI (AP) — The player agent handling negotiations for Houston All-American Wilson Whitley, a first-round draft choice of the Cincinnati Bengals, said he has instructed his client "not to step foot in Ohio until he signs."

It was the first disclosure that the National Football League club is embroiled in a bitter contract dispute with the highly-heralded defensive lineman.

He faces a $225-a-day fine if he does not report to rookie camp by July 18. "Just say we're substantially far apart," said agent Tom Crawford. He said he would be surprised if the salary conflict is resolved by rookie camp.

Crawford said he is not seeking an outrageous package. He said a key hurdle is the Bengals' push for a long-term contract between four and six years.

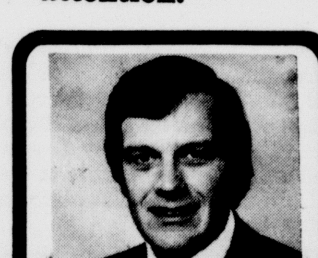

He said Whitley, a 6-foot-3, 266-pounder, won't sign for longer than four years and is seeking a salary of approximately $100,000 a year.

"I'm not holding them up. We're not asking for quarterback's pay. We're not afraid to let Wilson play on a short-term contract and let the market dictate what he's worth. Because, barring injuries, I know what Wilson Whitley is going to be worth," Crawford said.

Correction
The Elks Trap Shoop will be held Sunday, not July 17 as reported in The Herald Thursday.

Heavyweight Ken Norton attended Northeast Missouri State Teachers College on an athletic scholarship. He played football and also was a member of the track and field squad.

Capilla Opens Against Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Still thin from trades and weary from overwork, the Cincinnati Reds' beleaguered pitching staff looks to brash newcomer Doug Capilla tonight in the opener of a weekend series with the Houston Astros.

And Capilla is looking for big things from himself.

"Just get me two runs, that's all I ask," Capilla told second baseman Joe Morgan. "All I'm giving Houston is one run."

He is 1-0, with a victory over San Francisco 10 days ago in his first major league start. He is subbing for rookie Paul Moskau who was scheduled to open the series, but is still bothered by a groin injury.

Obtained three weeks ago from St. Louis in the Rawly Eastwick trade, Capilla will be facing another rookie, Floyd Bannister, who is 4-6.

The 25-year-old left-hander hopes to give the Reds bullpen breather after a nightmarish week that saw Cincinnati's pitching staff bombarded for 29 runs in the last four games.

"Someday we're gonna play a 50-49 game with 22 homers," said Manager Sparky Anderson, only half kidding.

The Reds, who have blown leads of 8-1 and 6-0 in the past week, took Thursday off after a 15-13 victory over Atlanta.

Cincinnati is the hottest hitting team in baseball in recent weeks, with a searing .330 team average for the past month. But they have fallen nine games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers after trimming the deficit to six three weeks ago.

Dan Driessen, booed early this season as successor at first base to popular Tony Perez, has been leading the way. Driessen has lifted his average more than 40 points in the last three weeks to .310, while boosting his home run total to 12. He has 56 runs batted in, third behind George Foster and Johnny Bench.

Anderson, who predicted in spring training that Driessen might challenge for the league batting title, takes delight in Driessen's solid performance.

"People won't be saying 'what can Driessen do?' They will be saying 'What will Driessen do?'"

The highlight of the series should come Saturday night when Tom Seaver, 8-4, squares off with former Cincinnati property Joaquin Andujar, 9-4. Both are bidding for spots on the All-Star team.

Saturday's game marks the midway point of the season, and Anderson is looking for better things.

"We will do better the second half," he said. The Reds, noted for their torrid second-half assaults, have won 70 per cent of their games down the stretch in the last five years. This year they may have to win 80 per cent to catch the smooth-running Dodgers.

Pack Still Bunched In British Open

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — "It's a bit disappointing," said Roger Maltbie, who came from nowhere to lead the British Open Golf Championship at the halfway point. "I expected different weather and a different kind of golf."

In windless conditions — almost unknown on Turnberry's Ailsa links — the 26-year-old bespectacled golfer from San Jose, Calif., who ranks 50th on the U.S. money winners' list, shot a four-under-par 66 Thursday for a two-round total of 137.

He was one shot ahead of U.S. Open champion Hubert Green and three former British Open champions — Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson.

said Watson. "It is not an easy golf course, even when there is no wind."

The old course record for the British Open was 65, first set by Britain's Henry Cotton at Sandwich in 1934.

Eight players have equalled it since, including Angel Gallardo of Spain, who briefly stole the glory with a 65 Thursday morning. But he had scored 78 on the first day and did not get within striking distance of the leaders.

Maltbie was not the only American who came to Scotland expecting high winds and felt let down by the strange calm.

"This was going to be an experience for me," Maltbie said. "I wanted to learn the pitch and run shots which I hear so much about from Scotland."

"I know it's a shot I would not be very good at. But instead we are playing the kind of golf we get in America. I've only played four or five real pitch and run shots the whole time I've been here."

The rare good weather produced sensations. Green holed in one at the 167-yard fourth — the fourth competitive ace of his career. Mark Hayes shot 63 — the lowest round ever recorded in the 117-year history of the British Open and tied for fifth place on 139 with Peter Butler of Britain.

Yet only a dozen men broke par on the 6,875-yard course.

"That is a tribute to the golf course,"

the winner went the mile in 2:03 2-5 to return $4.60, $2.80 and $2.80. Uncle Dow paid $3.20 and $2.80. The show horse was Frisco's Fred at $4.60.

The so-called luckiest day of the century provided hunch bettors with some lighter moments. The No. 7 horse in the featured seventh race, Okay's Krista, finished seventh in the eighth-horse field.

Two No. 7 horses posted victories, however, with Byrd's Best prevailing in the fifth race and Shadow Luck in the ninth.

Colombus Beats Mud Hens, 8-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A two-run homer by Harry Safertight and a three-run triple by Mike Edwards lifted Columbus to an 8-4 International League baseball victory Thursday night over Toledo.

The five-run burst came in the eighth inning. Toledo had given Columbus a scare in the seventh inning, coming up with three runs on a two-run triple by Gary Woods and a sacrifice by Alfredo Griffin.

In the only other IL game played Thursday, Tidewater topped Pawtucket 5-3.

The Charleston at Richmond and Syracuse at Rochester games were postponed due to rain.

Ailsa Course Turns Pussycat

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Hypnotized by a benign sun and a baby's breath, Ailsa's seaside monster has been turned into a purring pussycat for the British Open.

Not in all the 106 years of its existence has this crochety old golf championship been subjected to such irreverence.

Led by a pack of fairway vandals off the U.S. tour, the hide has been ripped off one of the game's most ancient traditions and spread under a torrid Scottish sun to dry.

Eliminate the uncertainty of the elements and Britain's craggy, rock-ribbed and sanddotted links are no more perilous than the pleasant municipal courses weekend duffers tackle back in the States.

Turnberry's Ailsa Course this week makes Breckinridge Park in San Antonio, where Mike Souhak and others shot 60 without taking a hitch in their breeches, look like a jungle obstacle course.

For all the challenges imposed, the 1977 British Championship could be the Tallahassee Open or the Dekalb County weekly turkey shoot.

A journeyman pro who had never won one of the normal tour events, John Schroeder, went out on the first day and beat the course to death with a four-under-par 66. Seven others were in the 60s.

On Thursday, a mild-mannered young man named Mark Hayes, never a serious threat to Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, shot the lowest round ever in the championship with a 63. He should have had a 62, cutting three strokes off the tournament record set by Henry Cotton in 1934 and since tied by others, but he got careless and bogeyed the final hole.

Thus Mark Hayes shot a round that such immortals as Harry Vardon, Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Ben Hogan and Arnold Palmer could never touch. Hubert Green also was heading for a 63 or better when he went to sleep on the closing holes.

Why the low scores? No wind and rain.

The British Open traditionally is the pawn of the weather. Cold blasts sweep in off the sea. Gusts reach 70 miles an hour. Fickle, swirling winds turn the most perfectly grooved shots into disasters.

But this year, instead of the capricious gusts, Turnberry got weather as calm and humid as a summer afternoon in Miami.

There were many red faces among the blue-coated committeemen of the Royal and Ancient, but Keith

MacKenzie, secretary of that ruling body of British Golf, presented a stiff upper lip.

"It doesn't bother us a bloody bit," snapped MacKenzie, a massive, imposing man with a pencil mustache. "We don't have the same philosophy as the USGA (U.S. Golf Association)."

"The USGA gets offended when scores are low in its Open Championship and goes to any extreme to toughen the course. Our feeling is that it's the same for everybody. If the weather is good, as now, let them play it as it is."

The USGA has set a score of 280 as its standard for the Open. It is happy when that mark is unbroken. It gets fidgety when its toughened layouts yield lower scores.

Nevada-Las Vegas led in three major departments in team play in the 1876-77 college basketball season. It was tops in scoring with an average of 107.1, winning margin at 19.4, and free throw percentage at .782.

Kentucky Rebel Wins At Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky Rebel, a 6-year-old gelding, came from seventh place at the quarter pole to capture the $1,000 featured pace at the Latonia Trots Thursday night.

The winner went the mile in 2:03 2-5 to return $4.60, $2.80 and $2.80. Uncle Dow paid $3.20 and $2.80. The show horse was Frisco's Fred at $4.60.

The so-called luckiest day of the century provided hunch bettors with some lighter moments. The No. 7 horse in the featured seventh race, Okay's Krista, finished seventh in the eighth-horse field.

Two No. 7 horses posted victories, however, with Byrd's Best prevailing in the fifth race and Shadow Luck in the ninth.

Columbus Beats Mud Hens, 8-4

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A two-run homer by Harry Saferright and a three-run triple by Mike Edwards lifted Columbus to an 8-4 International League baseball victory Thursday night over Toledo.

The five-run burst came in the eighth inning. Toledo had given Columbus a scare in the seventh inning, coming up with three runs on a two-run triple by Gary Woods and a sacrifice by Alfredo Griffin.

In the only other IL game played Thursday, Tidewater topped Pawtucket 5-3.

The Charleston at Richmond and Syracuse at Rochester games were postponed due to rain.

The correct name of Gene Tenace, the San Diego Padre catcher-first baseman, is Fury Gene Tenace.

Ailsa Course Turns Pussycat

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Hypnotized by a benign sun and a baby's breath, Ailsa's seaside monster has been turned into a purring pussycat for the British Open.

Not in all the 106 years of its existence has this crochety old golf championship been subjected to such irreverence.

Led by a pack of fairway vandals off the U.S. tour, the hide has been ripped off one of the game's most ancient traditions and spread under a torrid Scottish sun to dry.

Eliminate the uncertainty of the elements and Britain's craggy, rock-ribbed and sanddotted links are no more perilous than the pleasant municipal courses weekend duffers tackle back in the States.

Turnberry's Ailsa Course this week makes Breckinridge Park in San Antonio, where Mike Souchak and others shot 60 without taking a hitch in their breeches, look like a jungle obstacle course.

For all the challenges imposed, the 1977 British Championship could be the Tallahassee Open or the Dekalb County weekly turkey shoot.

A journeyman pro who had never won one of the normal tour events, John Schroeder, went out on the first day and beat the course to death with a four-under-par 66. Seven others were in the 60s.

On Thursday, a mild-mannered young man named Mark Hayes, never a serious threat to Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, shot the lowest round ever in the championship with a 63. He should have had a 62, cutting three strokes off the tournament record set by Henry Cotton in 1934 and since tied by others, but he got careless and bogeyed the final hole.

Thus Mark Hayes shot a round that such immortals as Harry Vardon, Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Ben Hogan and Arnold Palmer could never touch. Hubert Green was heading for a 63 or better when he went to sleep on the closing holes.

Why the low scores? No wind and rain.

The British Open traditionally is the pawn of the weather. Cold blasts sweep in off the sea. Gusts reach 70 miles an hour. Fickle, swirling winds turn the most perfectly grooved shots into disasters.

But this year, instead of the capricious gusts, Turnberry got weather as calm and humid as a summer afternoon in Miami.

There were many red faces among the blue-coated committeemen of the Royal and Ancient, but Keith

MacKenzie, secretary of that ruling body of British Golf, presented a stiff upper lip.

"It doesn't bother us a bloody bit," snapped MacKenzie, a massive, imposing man with a pencil mustache. "We don't have the same philosophy as the USGA (U.S. Golf Association)."

"The USGA gets offended when scores are low in its Open Championship and goes to any extreme to toughen the course. Our feeling is that it's the same for everybody. If the weather is good, as now, let them play it as it is."

The USGA has set a score of 280 as its standard for the Open. It is happy when that mark is unbroken. It gets fidgety when its toughened layouts yield lower scores.

Nevada-Las Vegas led in three major departments in team play in the 1876-77 college basketball season. It was tops in scoring with an average of 107.1, winning margin at 19.4, and free throw percentage at .782.

'Clarity Bill' Proves Flop

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York legislature has passed a bill requiring that leases and contracts "for personal, family or household purposes... be written in non-technical language and in a clear and coherent manner using words with common and everyday meanings."

However, the lawmakers couldn't leave well enough alone.

"Any creditor, seller or lessor who fails to comply with the foregoing provisions of this subdivision shall be liable to a consumer who is a party to a written agreement governed by the provisions thereof in an amount equal to the sum of any actual damages sustained plus fifty dollars," they wrote.

And if the governor signs the bill, "This act shall take effect on the first day of June in the next year succeeding the year in which it shall have become a law."

In words with common and everyday meanings, that's June 1, 1978.

Measles Foulup Reported

ATLANTA (AP) — For nearly a year public health officials have recommended giving a measles vaccine to pregnant women, while the manufacturer has urged against it, national health officials have disclosed.

Officials at the Center for Disease Control said Wednesday that the conflict was revealed when New Mexico withdrew requirements that females aged 12 and older be inoculated against measles before they enter school.

Public health officials recommend the vaccine for anyone facing the risk of measles, including pregnant women.

But package directions from Merck, Sharp and Dohme Inc. of West Point, Pa., the nation's only manufacturer of the vaccine called Attenuvax, say it should not be given to pregnant females or to a female who will become pregnant during a three-month period after receiving the inoculation.

The discrepancy "sort of slipped up on us," said Dr. Allen Hinman, director of the CDC's Bureau of Immunization. "It has some potential for giving us problems."

Government recommendations are made by the Bureau of Biologics of the Food and Drug Administration on advice from the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices of the Public Health Service and the American Committee on Pediatrics, he said.

He said government authorities plan to clarify the matter.

Although measles affects the fetus, he said, there is no evidence that the vaccine does.

A spokesman for Merck, Sharp and Dohme said the statement was put into the package "because of the theoretical risk to the fetus."

Friendly Visitors Recognized

The Friendly Visitors of the Pickaway Senior Center had a special recognition meeting and carry-in luncheon at the country home of Wanda Hamilton.

The Friendly Visitors made 1725 personal visits to shut-ins or nursing home patients in the past year since they were organized. They also have sponsored shut-in parties at the Senior Center. They make seven visits a month to the three nursing homes in the country.

The afternoon was spent with each person telling how they think the Friendly Visitor program could be improved. Many comments were made. Suggestions were made to invite new members and the old members were encouraged to participate in the nursing home programs. Each member was presented a book of "Friendly Visitor Poems." These poems were a combination of inspiration and joy and were compiled especially for the Friendly Visitors.

They were informed Pickaway County is the only county that has a successful Friendly Visitors program. The Friendly Visitors are a part of our reporting to the Central Ohio Area Aging.

Those Friendly Visitors attending were Carla DeLong, Maneve Ross, Hazel Cline, Pauline Jones, Della Wertman, Ruth Smith, Ray Beery, Minnie Strawser, Ruth Miranda, Mary Roberts, Jennie Hoffman, Jennie Eccard, Dorothea Friend, Arietta McNeal, Leora Sayre, Julia Lemon and Wanda Hamilton.

Guests and invited staff members were Etha Mae Wolford, Jerry Spangler, Fred Howell, Nancy Brown, Debbie Kneec, Kathy Rainey, Sharon Eyerman, Adella Huffman, Eunice Shy, and Todd Hamilton.

A special guest for the day was Ann Smith from England. She is visiting her daughter, Joan Eller, who lives on Washington St. in Circleville.

CB Brings Uninvited Guests

LOS ANGELES — Bored? Looking for some action? Flip on your CB radio, chances are there's a party just around the corner.

That's exactly what many teenagers are doing these days, and police in some places fear the problem will get worse with the warm weather and more parties — and more party crashers.

In the San Fernando Valley, for instance, police say it's not uncommon for a party host who invited 50 to his bash to find 400-500 revelers at the front door, thanks to the Citizens Band.

Last year, officers say, one hapless host was overwhelmed by 1,600 uninvited guests, many of whom had heard about the party over the CB airwaves.

"We've had calls for help from people who couldn't get out of their houses because of the large number of party crashers," said Capt. Glenn Levant of the Los Angeles Police Department's Devonshire Division in the upper middle-class north Valley.

"These party crashers, most of whom are in the age group of junior high to about 25, bring their own booze or marijuana, and often devastate the neighborhood," Levant said.

Levant stressed most of the party crashers are not members of organized Citizens Band radio clubs, but more typically are affluent teenagers who like to use the CB radios in their cars merely to gossip with their friends.

These teen-age talkers, prevented by their parents from lengthy conversations on the family phone, carry on longwinded discussions from the front seat of their automobiles, police say, clogging the airwaves with chitchat.

Often when the rowdy guests are asked to leave, the host is answered with a shower of beer cans and bottles of various beverages.

While admitting there are limits to what a party host may do to prevent such occurrences, Levant suggests several ways to lessen the chance of having a party crashed.

He recommends having a guest list, sending out invitations, and admitting only those persons who are invited.

If uninvited guests arrive, Levant suggests the host refuse to admit them in the hopes they will put the word out over the airwaves that the party is closed to all but those bearing invitations.

Pre-planned activities are a good idea for controlling a party, Levant said, as is making sure there is adult supervision if the parents plan to be away during the party.

If none of these suggestions works, hosts are advised to call the police quickly before any trouble erupts so that the crowd can be dispersed.

In the meantime, hosts can just keep their fingers crossed that word of their party doesn't hit the CB channels — at least until the morning after.

Twins Shell Angels, 8-6

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Frank Tanana acted like Little Boy Blue.

Tanana, the spirited, young California left-hander, was uncharacteristically downcast after his worst pitching performance of the season Thursday night as the Angels were beaten by the Minnesota Twins 8-6.

After being battered out in the fourth inning, his earliest knockout in 70 starts this season, Tanana waved and made an uncomplimentary gesture to the Minnesota crowd amidst a chorus of boos.

"I happen to like Tanana personally and as a player, but I hate to see him or anyone of that caliber, act like a little boy," said Twins Manager Gene Mauch.

Tanana later apologized for his actions. "I had no business doing what I did," he said contritely. "It was uncalled for. I guess it was the frustration of not doing the job I'm capable of doing."

Meanwhile, New York's Catfish Hunter did what he is capable of doing. The Yankees right-hander pitched a four-hitter for his best showing of the season as New York pounded Cleveland 8-2 for its 13th straight triumph over the Indians in two seasons.

"I'm encouraged because my arm felt good," said Hunter, who has been plagued by arm trouble virtually all season. "That's the most important thing. When my arm feels good, it makes my whole body feel good. I was hitting my spots and making good pitches."

In other AL games, the Boston Red Sox moved into a virtual second-place tie in the East with idle Baltimore, one game behind New York, downing the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2 and the Texas Rangers battered the Oakland A's 8-3.

The Milwaukee at Kansas City game was rained out.

"Tanana wasn't himself," Minnesota's Butch Wynegar said after collecting three hits and driving in three runs.

Tanana was far from his best. He was shelled for eight hits and five runs in 3 2-3 innings. The loss dropped the record of the AL's winningest pitcher — and probable starter in the All-Star Game — to 12-6. It was only the fourth time he failed to go the distance.

Meanwhile, Hunter's complete game effort was only his fourth in 11 starts and raised his record to 5-3.

New York outfielder Lou Piniella blasted a two-run homer for the Yanks, Paul Blair rapped a two-run triple and Graig Nettles drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Red Sox 5, Blue Jays 2
Carlton Fisk drove in three runs with his 16th homer of the season and a sacrifice fly and Jim Rice collected three hits, including his 20th homer, as Boston completed a three-game sweep over Toronto. Fisk homered off loser Jesse Jefferson, 5-8, after Rice doubled off the centerfield wall in the seventh.

Red Sox' relief ace Bill Campbell pitched three scoreless innings for his 16th save, preserving the victory for Bob Stanley, 5-3.

Rangers 8, A's 3
Toby Harrah broke a 3-3 tie with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, then cracked a solo homer in the seventh, powering Texas past Oakland.

Texas reliever Roger Moret, injured most of the season, pitched 3 1-3 innings of hitless ball for his first victory.

'Lifeline' Bill Falls To Political Intrigue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 26-year-old sponsor of a defeated bill to provide elderly and handicapped Ohioans with discounts on their winter heating bills plans to incorporate the proposal in a separate bill and return it to the House floor.

Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-18 Euclid, coupled the disclosure Thursday with a stinging attack on House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, who he blamed for blocking reconsideration of the modified "lifeline" bill.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, joined in the unusually harsh attack on Kurfess, his Republican counterpart, and Gov. James A. Rhodes urged both sides to resolve their differences and pass a bill.

Rhodes' unsolicited comment on a legislative matter, not before him, was also unusual.

The bill technically died as the House recessed for the weekend, with the passage of three legislative days allowed for: reconsideration of defeated measures.

To reconsider, Eckart needed at least three of the Republicans who voted against the bill to sign a petition for a second vote. He had two, one of whom agreed to make the motion, he said, but backed off under pressure from the GOP leadership.

"Kurfess' playing politics with the elderly and needy of Ohio smacks as one of the most repugnant moves of a minority leader," Eckart said. "I am confident that the people of Ohio will recognize Charles Kurfess' actions for what they are; a self-proclaimed political minister preaching the gospel for big business."

Riffe, who like Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, is eyeing a run for governor, was even sharper in his criticism.

Riffe claimed Kurfess "twisted several of his colleagues arms to prevent a reconsideration vote."

"It was a senseless act. It was an indifferent act," the Democratic leader said. "It was conceived and executed by a political figure and certain of his colleagues whose time has passed."

Kurfess called the barbs "political childishness" and said he had been amenable to a compromise on the legislation.

But he said he had not been approached directly by Riffe or Eckart on the matter of reconsidering the bill.

The parliamentary device that defeated the measure was not planned in advance by the Republican caucus, Kurfess said, but resulted from GOP anger over the "blatant, arrogant attitude" of Riffe in regulating floor debate.

Eckart said the legislation offering a 25 per cent discount for the aged and handicapped on gas or electric bills would be incorporated in a separate measure and returned to the floor.

That apparently is Rhodes' hope.

"Failure to pass legislation in this area will compound the misery of elderly and disabled Ohioans," he said in a statement. "I hope that the House, which defeated one proposal...will agree on legislation to provide relief as soon as possible."

Utility Workers Set Pact Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nearly 1,600 workers at the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. are to vote this weekend on a new contract, a company spokesman said.

Tentative agreement on the pact was reached Thursday morning by negotiators of C&SOE and Local 1466, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, C&SOE spokesman Robert Jones said. He gave no details of the agreement. William Hamler, Local 1466 president, could not be reached for comment.

The union workers "have been working on a day-to-day basis" since the old three-year pact expired July 1, Jones said. There has been no interruption in service.

Andrew Young Eyes Talk Show

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young, noted for his controversial statements, may appear on a weekly half-hour talk show dealing with the United Nations or other foreign policy issues.

Producers David Garth and Arnold Michaelis have discussed the idea for the show with Young and others in the U.S. United Nations mission, a mission press officer said, and are now offering it to TV outlets. The last step would be clearance from the White House for Young's involvement.

One of Young's associates said Young would be "willing to go along with it if they (the producers) can work it out."

Ford, Too, Has Pile Of Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's paper legacy stands unrivaled, but it turns out that Gerald R. Ford and his aides were no slouches when it came to cranking out official documents.

The government is preparing to sort through some 20 million pages of papers Ford donated before leaving the White House. The documents cover Ford's 25 years in Congress, his tenure as vice president, and his 2½-year presidency.

Ford's White House years account for about 17.6 million pages of documents, which ultimately will be housed in a presidential library at the University of Michigan.

It will take a staff of 14 to sort and catalogue the Ford papers to prepare them for public use. Only documents that bear on national security or infringe on personal privacy are to be sealed.

Nixon's presidential papers run to 42 million pages, in addition to the 880 reels of tape that record some 5,000 hours of White House conversation. Nixon claims ownership, as have past presidents, but the Supreme Court has ruled that the government properly has custody and control of his documents and tapes.

The official documents include a broad assortment of papers, from various executive agencies, that make up the record of a presidency. Those records seem to be growing longer with each administration.

Nixon piled up presidential documents at a rate equal to more than 20,000 pages for each of his 2,027 days in the White House. And the Ford collection grew at almost that rate.

The rent is a bargain: $4,085 a year for the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. And Fidel Castro hasn't even been cashing the checks.

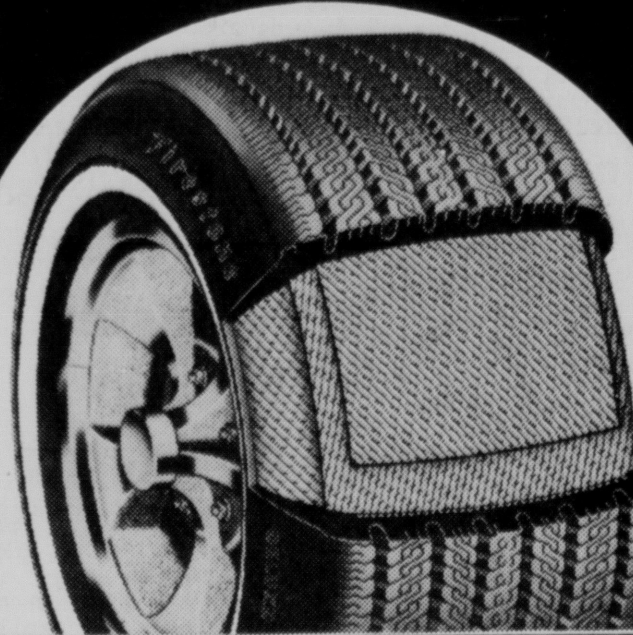

"At today's prices, this may well be the first instance in which the United States is a recipient, rather than a donor of foreign aid," said Rep. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R-Ohio.

The matter came up in the House when Whalen said that for the sake of consistency, Congress should stop paying the rent and the salaries of 149 Cubans who work on the base.

Whalen's sardonic reasoning was that the House has twice voted to prohibit aid or trade with Cuba, and should follow its own strictures in the case of Guantanamo. His "anti-hypocrisy amendment of 1977" got nowhere.

Twins Shell Angels, 8-6

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer
Frank Tanana acted like Little Boy Blue.

Tanana, the spirited, young California left-hander, was uncharacteristically downcast after his worst pitching performance of the season Thursday night as the Angels were beaten by the Minnesota Twins 8-6.

After being battered out in the fourth inning, his earliest knockout in 20 starts this season, Tanana waved and made an uncomplimentary gesture to the Minnesota crowd amidst a chorus of boos.

"I happen to like Tanana personally and as a player, but I hate to see him or anyone of that caliber, act like a little boy," said Twins Manager Gene Mauch.

Tanana later apologized for his actions. "I had no business doing what I did," he said contritely. "It was uncalled for. I guess it was the frustration of not doing the job I'm capable of doing."

Meanwhile, New York's Catfish Hunter did what he is capable of doing. The Yankees right-hander pitched a four-hitter for his best showing of the season as New York pounded Cleveland 8-2 for its 13th straight triumph over the Indians in two seasons.

"I'm encouraged because my arm felt good," said Hunter, who has been plagued by arm trouble virtually all season. "That's the most important thing. When my arm feels good, it makes my whole body feel good. I was hitting my spots and making good pitches."

In other AL games, the Boston Red Sox moved into a virtual second-place tie in the East with idle Baltimore, one game behind New York, downing the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2 and the Texas Rangers battered the Oakland A's 8-3.

The Milwaukee at Kansas City game was rained out.

"Tanana wasn't himself," Minnesota's Butch Wynegar said after collecting three hits and driving in three runs.

Tanana was far from his best. He was shelled for eight hits and five runs in 3 2-3 innings. The loss dropped the record of the AL's winningest pitcher — and probable starter in the All-Star Game — to 12-6. It was only the fourth time he failed to go the distance.

Meanwhile, Hunter's complete game effort was only his fourth in 11 starts and raised his record to 5-3.

New York outfielder Lou Piniella blasted a two-run homer for the Yanks, Paul Blair rapped a two-run triple and Graig Nettles drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Red Sox 5, Blue Jays 2

Carlton Fisk drove in three runs with his 16th homer of the season and a sacrifice fly and Jim Rice collected three hits, including his 20th homer, as Boston completed a three-game sweep over Toronto. Fisk homered off loser Jesse Jefferson, 5-8, after Rice doubled off the centerfield wall in the seventh.

Red Sox' relief ace Bill Campbell pitched three scoreless innings for his 16th save, preserving the victory for Bob Stanley, 5-3.

Rangers 8, A's 3

Toby Harrah broke a 3-3 tie with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, then cracked a solo homer in the seventh, powering Texas past Oakland.

Texas reliever Roger Moret, injured most of the season, pitched 3 1-3 innings of hitless ball for his first victory.

'Lifeline' Bill Falls To Political Intrigue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 26-year-old sponsor of a defeated bill to provide elderly and handicapped Ohioans with discounts on their winter heating bills plans to incorporate the proposal in a separate bill and return it to the House floor.

Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-18 Euclid, coupled the disclosure Thursday with a stinging attack on House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, who he blamed for blocking reconsideration of the modified "lifeline" bill.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, joined in the unusually harsh attack on Kurfess, his Republican counterpart, and Gov. James A. Rhodes urged both sides to resolve their differences and pass a bill.

Rhodes' unsolicited comment on a legislative matter, not before him, was also unusual.

The bill technically died as the House recessed for the weekend, with the passage of three legislative days allowed for reconsideration of defeated measures.

Eckart said the legislation offering a 25 per cent discount for the aged and handicapped on gas or electric bills would be incorporated in a separate measure and returned to the floor.

That apparently is Rhodes' hope.

"Failure to pass legislation in this area will compound the misery of elderly and disabled Ohioans," he said in a statement. "I hope that the House, which defeated one proposal...will agree on legislation to provide relief as soon as possible."

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Maintain a calm attitude in all situations and you can avoid a lot of frustration. Stress tact in all dealings - especially with members of the opposite sex.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A fine day for personal betterment, social activities and long-range planning. Avoid a tendency toward extravagance, however.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Be careful about your judgments and emotional reactions. Dubious ventures may be proposed. Control enthusiasm. Do nothing without careful thought.

You may fulfill your mission through an important invention, through writing, lecturing or teaching; may even hit upon a great scientific discovery - especially in the field of medicine - or, with your great love of heritage and tradition, become an outstanding historian or a journalist interpreting current events to the ultimate benefit of future historians. Even if you turn to art, which you may well do, your painting, music or writing will carry a "message." Traits to curb: impatience, hypersensitivity, jealousy. DISTRICT GOVERNOR — Bob Scranton, left, Governor of the South Central Ohio Sertoma District, was the guest speaker at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Circleville Sertoma Club. Time Lag Probed In Prison Blaze

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — The horn that often means disaster blared three times at about 1:30 a.m. in the dormitory of the Danbury Fire Department.

Captain Antonio Lagarto and his crew jumped out of their beds and into their boots and raced to the worst fire in the history of the federal prison system.

"Help us! Get us out of here! Over here!" inmates yelled to the firemen from the small steel-frame windows in Dormitory G, a drug treatment unit at the Federal Correctional Institution in Danbury.

Five inmates died and 71 persons suffered burns or smoke inhalation in the flames, thick smoke and toxic fumes that swept the overcrowded cellblock dormitory Thursday — the 37th anniversary of the formal opening of the medium-security prison.

The fire had started at least 13 minutes before the fire horn blared. A five-man board of inquiry from the U.S. Bureau of Prisons was to convene today to investigate the time lag.

Authorities said the fire was caused by arson, but had no suspects in custody and did not know of any motive.

Billy O. Davis, associate warden, and Capt. Lagarto denied the contention of some inmates that the fire was caused by an electrical malfunction in the dormitory washroom.

"Initial findings indicate that the fire started in a field jacket hanging in the washroom area," Davis said. "Fire by accidental cause has been eliminated."

Davis said a preliminary investigation indicated that the fire spread rapidly to the ceiling of the dormitory, fanning heavy smoke. He said that inmates and prison staff members tried unsuccessfully to extinguish the fire.

The inmates also charge that guards refused to open exits from the dormitory immediately because they were more concerned about security than safety, causing delays in the evacuation.

Davis acknowledged a delay in opening the emergency exit door but denied that it was intentional.

"Inmates sounded the alarm at the unit and staff members on duty attempted to unlock the emergency room door upon seeing that fire had broken out in the vicinity of the entrance unit," Davis said. "However, the emergency exit door jammed due to the pressure of inmates trying to get out and the key broke in the door."

3 Children Die; Didn't See Train

HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif. (AP) — It's a sight dreaded by every train engineer — kids on the tracks, heads down.

Larry Van Daele was pulling his 15-car freight toward its home yard after a daily run to Los Angeles harbor Thursday when he spotted four children, hand in hand, idly stepping from tie to tie, a Union Pacific spokesman said.

Slowly, they came toward him. He sounded his diesel's shrill whistle. But they kept coming.

He sounded the whistle again and threw on the emergency brake.

The train slowed, but only gradually. Brakeman Maurice Dieu leaped from the train, running and waving at the kids. The railroad said the freight was traveling at less than the 20 m.p.h. train yard speed limit.

"But the four of them, they were looking directly down at the ties," said Dieu.

He said he climbed onto the platform in front of the engine.

"I thought, well, maybe my voice might carry ... I have no idea why they didn't hear the whistle."

Three of the children were killed on the rails as the train ground to a stop. The fourth was critically injured.

No one knows why they didn't move. "The brakeman got out and waved and hollered and everything else," said Union Pacific spokesman John Forbes. "Have you ever heard a diesel whistle? It turns you blue."

But Van Daele "was pushing a thousand tons ... He tried, but trains don't stop like automobiles," Forbes said.

"Before we identified them, we thought they might be handicapped," Forbes said of the children. "We thought they might be deaf."

Amanda Lack, 7; her 6-year-old brother Jason, 6; and Julie Kline, 10, were killed. Julie's 8-year-old sister Holly was listed in "extremely critical" condition at St. Francis Hospital after undergoing emergency surgery.

On their way home from a morning in the park on a hot summer day, they had decided to stop at the trainyard in this largely industrial suburb.

"They use it as a playground, unfortunately," Forbes said. "There are kids all over."

Forbes said Van Daele "saw their faces and he just couldn't understand why they didn't move. That engineer is damn near in shock."

"Their eyes were on the track bed," Forbes said. "It seems impossible. Just impossible."

U.S. Rep. Samuel L. Devine of Columbus, whose district would be pulled from beneath him and made into an area encompassing core city Columbus and southern Franklin County, an envisioned Democratic stronghold.

Several other incumbent Republicans would be affected also, in some instances finding themselves living in the same district with another GOP congressman, or in strange territory where they haven't tested the political waters before.

House leaders declined to speculate as to the fate of the bill in that chamber.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, has never counted it as among his priorities this year, as Ocacek has. Party leaders and major Democratic backers such as the Ohio AFL-CIO and the Ohio Education Association, likewise, have remained neutral on it.

Areas where major impact would be expected:

The 12th District, the eastern half of Franklin County and all of rural Delaware and Morrow counties, would be reshaped to include the southern half of Franklin and most of the City of Columbus. The Democratic target in the 12th is Devine, R-12 Ohio. The 15th, comprising the northern half of Franklin along with Delaware, Madison and Union counties, might be conceded to Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-15 Ohio, but Devine could run against him in the primary election next year.

The 11th District, which includes Ashtabula, most of Lake, Geauga, and Portage counties, and about half of Trumbull, would be restructured to pick up industrial areas in Trumbull. By putting all of Trumbull into the district, Democratic votes could be counted on in Warren, Niles and Girard. The incumbent, Rep. J. William Stanton, R-11 Ohio, is popular in these areas however, and could survive in the new districts, Democrats concede.

The 2nd District, presently encompassing the western half of Hamilton County, would be changed so that it would include most of the City of Cincinnati, a move designed to strengthen U.S. Rep. Thomas A. Luken, D-2 Ohio, while the 1st District would be made up of outlying areas of the county, a concession to Rep. Willis D. Gradison Jr., R-3 Ohio.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, offered a floor amendment which would have left Hamilton as it is now, with a north-south line dividing it into western and eastern sections. He was voted down along party lines 21-11.

The 4th District, embracing Hancock, Wyandot, Hardin, Allen, Auglaize, Shelby and Miami counties and parts of Logan and Crawford counties, would be carved up to give Democrats a shot at a new district, with no incumbent.

Travel Agency Measure Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate has virtually completed passage of legislation requiring travel agencies and tour promoters in Ohio to post bond and register with the secretary of state.

Sen. Thomas E. Carney, D-32 Girard, and other sponsors say the law is needed because of unscrupulous promoters who collect from Ohio but fail to deliver on promised services.

The bill went back to the House, where it originated, for consideration of minor Senate amendments.

Grange Youth

The Pickaway County Grange Youth meeting was held recently at the home of Frank and Mary K. Lands, the Pickaway County Grange Deputies with members of five subordinate youth groups in attendance.

Following the cook-out and recreation, the members participated in the business meeting conducted by the president, Brenda Bolender.

Plans were completed for the display at the Pickaway County and Ohio State Fairs. Directing the projects will be Mark Wolfe and Barbara McKenzie.

The representatives for the fair king and queen contest were chosen with Brenda Bolender and Randy Wolfe as the winners.

During the Pickaway County Fair the youth will assist members of Washington Grange at the entrance gates.

Fall activities were planned and the group discussed the Youth Conference to be held in November during the Thanksgiving weekend.

Eddie and Barbara Crites will host the August 7 meeting at their farm with a picnic beginning at 6:30 p.m.

"We do our worst job in the legislature when we try to make decisions on very technical and medical matters that we are not experts in," observed Rep. Larry Christmas, D-67 Englewood.

Nobody on the floor disagreed with that. But the bill drew support from those who thought Ohioans should have freedom of choice despite the U.S. Food and Drug Administration ban on interstate sale of laetrile, which federal officials and other experts insist is not a cancer cure.

"If we're going to allow people to ride motorcycles without helmets and that sort of thing, then they ought to be allowed to use laetrile in this state," said Rep. Richard D. Finan, R-19 Cincinnati.

If the Senate approves, laetrile will be sold across the counter in Ohio without prescription, so long as the bottles contain the following notice:

"Amygdalin (laetrile) is not recommended by the Ohio State Medical Association for the treatment of cancer. Amygdalin may be harmful to your health."
